

FREE PARKING FILLS SENATE LOT . . .

Koenig Backed by State In Uptown Parking Dispute

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, reacting swiftly to protect what he terms "the public's interests" in the Uptown Parking Garage, has forced the cancellation of the Uptown Businessmen's Association's (paid) monthly parking endeavor at the Senate Parking Lot. The Senate Parking Lot is still open to the public, but at no charge.

The controversy began shortly after the city officially opened the North Front Parking Garage on March 1 and declared that the 120 monthly parking permits at $10 for covered parking and $8 for open parking were "sold out."

Figuring there might be an additional demand for more monthly parking spaces, the businessmen, on March 6, began to solicit for monthly parking at the Senate Lot. The businessmen had been paying for snow removal costs and insurance.

"We were just trying to break even," Glenn Stampfle, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association told The Freeman. "We had almost a thousand dollars sunk into that (Senate) parking lot. We weren't looking to make a profit. We were going to turn the profits, if any, over to the state."

Koenig didn't see it that way at all. First he called Stampfle and charged that the businessmen's group was in competition with the city at the North Front Street Parking Garage and undercutting the city, to boot. "I feel it is unfair to the taxpayers who have put a lot of money ($700,000) into that parking garage," Koenig said today. "The businessmen were in competition with the city. And we built that garage for them in the first place."

Koenig also told the businessmen that he felt their charging for parking at the Senate Parking Lot was illegal. The land is owned by the New York State Historic Trust.

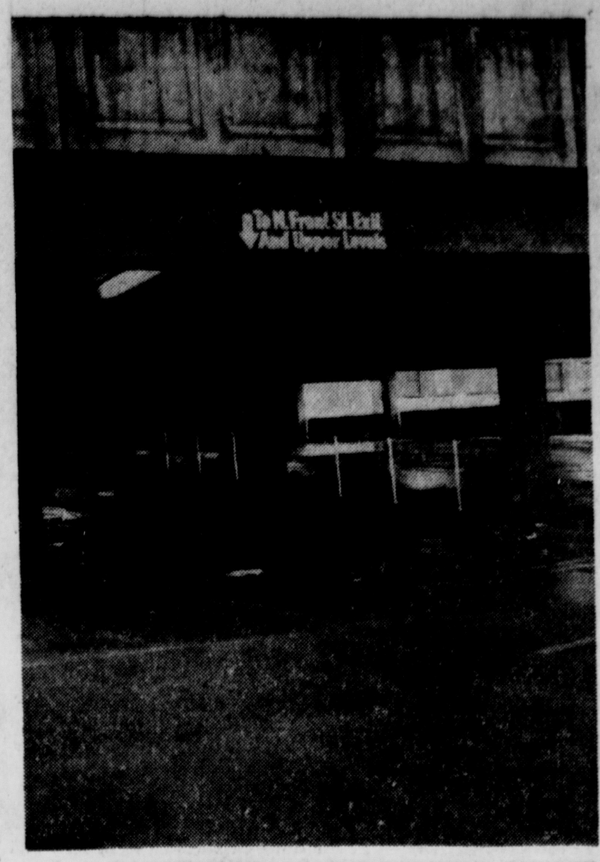

Koenig's next call was to Donald Steward, director of the Palisades Park Commission, an arm of the State Historic Trust, which is in charge of the Senate Parking Lot.

Steward confirmed that the businessmen had no right to charge for parking at the Senate lot. Steward said he had given verbal approval to the businessmen in December to use the parking lot (only) for the Christmas Holiday season. Steward told The Freeman this week that he wasn't even aware that the businessmen had continued to use the parking lot after the Christmas holidays.

"When the state lost its concessionaire at the Senate Parking Lot late last year, they were going to close the lot," Stampfle said. "We (the businessmen) asked them if they would keep it open if we would pay for the cost of snow removal and insurance. The state agreed."

After Koenig informed the businessmen that he was contacting Steward, the businessmen, according to Stampfle, decided to cease soliciting monthly paid parkers at the Senate Lot until they could get a definite ruling from Steward. March 8, three days after it started, paid parking halted at the Senate lot. Thirty customers had been realized. Steward's ruling to Stampfle came on March 10.

The key to the future of the Senate Parking lot lies in the state's plans to convert it into a park area for the Senate Museum.

Nixon Takes Steps To Fill Pay Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided how to fill a gap caused by the resignation of three AFL-CIO leaders from the Pay Board and was scheduled to announce his decision later today, the White House said.

Deputy press secretary Gerald R. Warren said Nixon was scheduled to confer at 3 p.m. E.S.T. with members of the Cost of Living Council and disclose immediately thereafter his plans for future composition of the board and its methods of procedures.

Warren said Nixon made his decision Wednesday night—a few hours after AFL-CIO President George Meany led himself and two colleagues off the 15-member panel.

The President met for about two hours Wednesday night with Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, Director George P. Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget, Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers and Donald Rumsfeld, staff chief of the Cost of Living Council.

Warren, reporting this, said Nixon continued discussions on the subject today.

The press spokesman gave no clue as to the nature of the President's decision.

"I think it very likely that the Pay Board will go on, but how and in what manner remains to be seen," Chairman George H. Boldt said. "There's more than one way to skin a cat."

After today's meeting, the board plans a two-week Easter recess. Although it was scheduled long before AFL-CIO President George Meany and two AFL-CIO colleagues resigned Wednesday, the break will serve to give the administration some breathing space.

The five public members of the board denied Meany's charges that the board has been unfair to labor.

They said 28 of the board's 54 formal votes had been unanimous. The union members had been in the majority of 36 votes, they said, and had voted in the majority on five of eight major wage cases decided by the full board.

Paltz Faculty, Students Protest State Budget Cuts

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

About 300 members of the State University College at New Paltz student body, faculty, and administration showed up at the "protestorium", held on the campus Wednesday and sponsored by a number of student and faculty organizations, to protest the recent state university budget cuts and tuition hikes.

State University students face some big tuition boosts next year. They had a boost this year, and now pay $550 a year tuition after a $100 a year across the board hike approved by the State University Board of Trustees. For the 1972-73 school year, the Board of Trustees has approved a tuition hike of $100 for freshmen and sophomores, bringing them to $650 a year, and $250 for juniors and seniors, bringing them to $800. State resident graduate students will be paying $1,200 a year in 1972-73 insead of this year's $800. Out of state graduate students from this year's $1,000 to $1,500.

The movement to protest the tuition hikes and university budget cuts is spreading across the state university system. The tuition hikes apply to all State University students; the budget cuts have affected each separate campus differently. According to figures supplied by New Paltz Vice President for Administration M. Douglas Stafford, New Paltz, is getting the short end of the financial stick, especially proportionally, from Albany.

New Paltz budget, as submitted by Governor Rockefeller, is down 6.5 per cent, the greatest percentage drop in the state. It dropped $862,000, to $12.4 million for 1972-73.

The college never gets to spend all the money appropriated. Budget cuts, expenditure ceilings and the savings factor, have reduced the appropriation for the present school year by $1.3 million. The savings factor, money appropriated to the college which it is required to save and not spend, for next year is $328,000.

Coupled with budget decreases, Stafford said, is a student increase. New Paltz received a 4.7 per cecnt increase in students for this year.

Stafford said the college is 80 lines, or jobs, short now, and 46 of them are to be abolished. the rest will have to stay empty to make up the savings factor. He said he had $7 million worth of buildings he couldn't open because he didn't have the maintenance personnel or the materials to take care of them.

As a result of budget cuts, book acquisition at the college library is down, proper student services can't be provided, the security force is too low, and a fee might have to be charged for the materials for certain college courses.

College President Dr. John J. Neumaier spoke in favor of public higher education, and urged the students to seek to have the tuition hikes scrapped and the cut funds restored through available political means "in which I still believe."

Faculty representatives Doctors Samuel Shaw and Milton Jacobs spoke of the effect of the budget cuts on the faculty, told of what faculty had done to fight the cuts, and said they were glad to work with the students to protest the tuition hikes and budget cuts.

Several student representatives blasted the hike and the cuts, and called for a roll back of the tuition hike, restoration of the money cut from the budget, and eventual free tuition for the State University system.

YMCA Sloane House Tragedy

Four Dead, 21 Injured in Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four persons died and at least 21 others were injured Wednesday night in a fire which swept through corridors of a YMCA residence on Manhattan's West Side. Twenty-two persons were taken down from windows and ledges to safety by aerial ladders.

The blaze, fed by wall paint and carpeting, engulfed two floors of the Sloane House at 34th Street and 9th Avenue, trapping many of the guests. About 1,000 persons were staying at the transient hotel at the time of the fire.

One man jumped from a seventh floor window ledge into a courtyard and was seriously injured. "It's miraculous he's still alive," police said. Firemen arriving on the scene, found others trapped on ledges, ready to jump. Fire officials said the blaze, believed to have started in a linen closet shortly before 10 p.m., was declared under control shortly after 11.

William Thomas, 50, had just returned from a late dinner and was in the seventh floor washroom when the fire broke out. "When I came out I saw the fire coming and crackling. It was coming as fast as dry grass burns," he said.

Thomas said it was he who first alerted the YMCA management to the fire. "They didn't know anything about it," he said.

Another guest on the seventh floor, Henry Brown said, "I opened the door and there was so much smoke I couldn't breathe." He was almost trapped in the corridor but "then this guy opened his door and I went in," he said.

Authorities said the fire was confined to the 7th and 8th floors of the 40-year-old structure which switched from an all-male hotel seven years ago to a co-ed residence.

The 13-story brick building has a capacity of 1,600. Many of the guests, some of them wearing only robes and towels, jammed into the lobby.

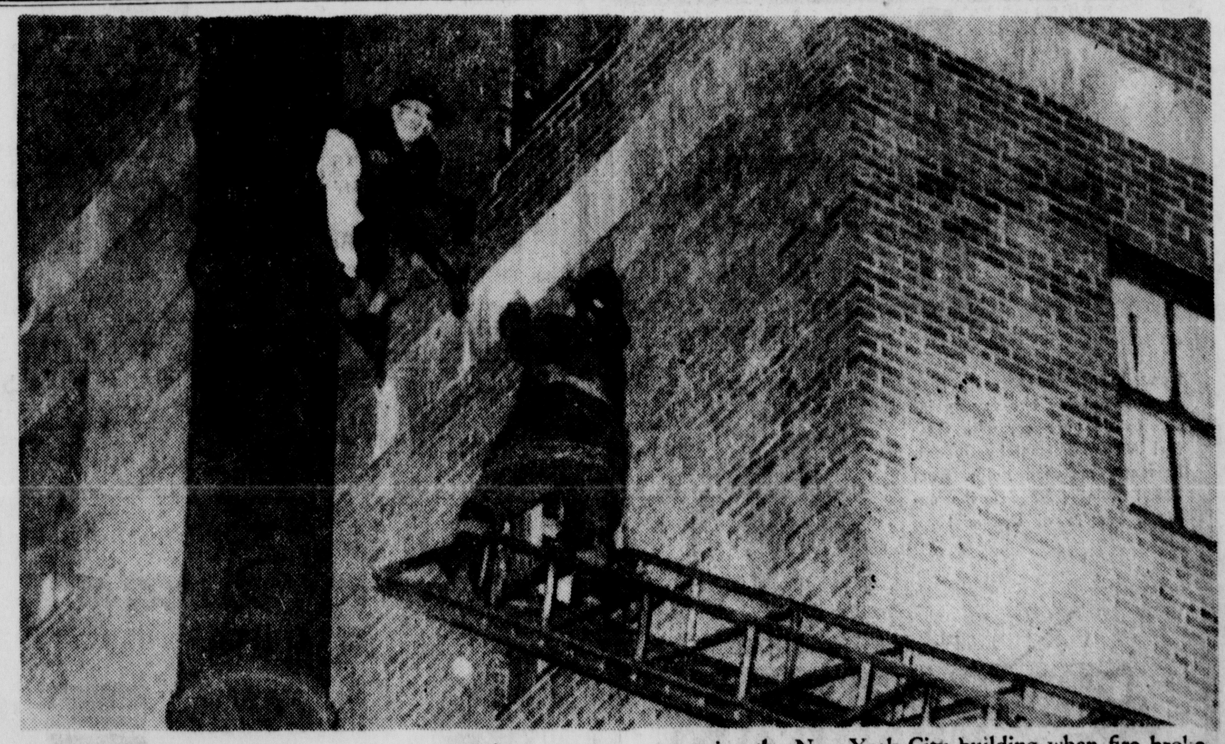

Some were burdened with personal belongings they had removed from their rooms when the fire alarm sounded. Women with babes in arms, old men and young milled about in the general confusion. Guests waited in long lines to telephone relatives.

Murder Suspect Is Hospitalized

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Preliminary hearing for Donald J. Dermody, 35, of 144 Spring Street, who is accused of the rifle-slaying of his 32-year-old wife, Nancy, was adjourned today in City Court because the defendant is a patient at Benedictine Hospital.

Dermody was admitted to the hospital Wednesday after he appeared before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and pleaded innocent through counsel to a charge of murder. The hearing had been scheduled for 9 a.m. today. The hearing is scheduled for Saturday.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser made known that an autopsy performed at the County Morgue disclosed that Mrs. Dermody died of multiple internal hemorrhages due to lacerations of the heart and liver that resulted from gunshot wounds.

Examination of the victim's body showed several bullet holes in the area of her chest, the lower part of her body and back, police said.

Dermody is under constant guard at the hospital by deputies from the sheriff's office. Authorities said no one is allowed in his room except detectives and employes at the hospital, nurses and physicians. His ailment was not made known by investigators.

Meanwhile, police officers are keeping close surveillance at the Spring Street residence where Dermody, his late wife and their seven children reside. The ages of the children range from 3 to 14 years. Police noted that no one except investigators will be permitted in the house until detectives complete their search for evidence.

The investigation is being conducted under the direction of District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, Police Chief Julius M. Glassman, Detective Lieutenant Charles McCullough and Sergeant William Slover.

According to detectvies, the shooting occurred Tuesday at about 9:45 p.m. Authorities said Mrs. Dermody apparently was sitting in a chair in the living room of her home when she was fatally wounded by shots allegedly fired by her husband. It was reported earlier that the shooting occurred in the kitchen.

After she was wounded, authorities said, Mrs. Dermody made her way to the kitchen, moving in the direction of a telephone. The shots were heard by the couple's eldest daughter, Regina, who hurried to the kitchen and saw her mother lying in a pool of blood on the floor. The girl called police and said her father had shot her mother, according to police.

When the first officers arrived at the house, they found the dying woman, who was rushed to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. She died about 10:15 p.m.

Police found a .22-caliber semi-automatic rifle and some expended cartridge shells on the kitchen floor. Dermody was sitting in a chair at the kitchen table. He was taken into custody and later charged with murder.

Dermody told detectives the rifle belonged to him.

At arraignment yesterday morning, the defendant's hands and arms trembled, his eyes were red, and his head twisted from one side to the other at times as he stared at the floor. Because of his condition he was taken from police headquarters to the hospital for treatment and observation, authorities said.

Dermody's counsel is attorney John Gotelli. Assistant District Attorney Albert Hrdlicka is handling the case in court.

Completion of Manslaughter Jury Expected

KINGSTON — A jury was expected to be seated today for the trial of Mary Ann Longto, 24, who is under indictment charged with manslaughter third degree stemming from the death of her infant daughter, Elizabeth Ann, on Aug. 12, 1970.

It was brought out by defense counsel during examination of potential jurors that the defense plea would be innocent by reason of insanity. The defense contends that the accused mother did not understand the nature or consequences of her conduct or knew that she was doing wrong at the time of the incident in question.

Both Miss Donovan and Saccoman dealt with questions relating to insanity during the interviewing of the men and women veniremen. Both attorneys tried to get jurors who would carefully weigh testimony and evidence relating to insanity.

The defendant, who is accused of allegedly hitting her two-month-old daughter's head on a door jam on the day the infant died, has continued to plead innocent.

The examination of jurors by counsel resumed shortly after 10 a.m. today and indications were that a jury of 12 men and women and two alternates may be completed later in the day.

After a jury is seated, counsel for both sides will deliver their opening remarks to the jury during which they will outline to the jury the facts they expect to prove through witnesses.

When County Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned court Tuesday afternoon, eight jurors had been seated for the trial. Court was not in session on Wednesday because Judge Mino was presiding at a special term. Ellen G. Donovan, assistant district attorney, is prosecuting the case and Charles Saccoman is defense counsel.

Planning Board Checks Growth

KINGSTON — The tracing of population growth in the various municipalities of Ulster County and the projection of population patterns in those municipaites is being undertaken by the Ulster County Planning Board, according to Herbert Hekler, director of planning.

The project is part of a major report which will be forthcoming in the near future and is the first of its kind in Ulster County since the turn of the century.

An analysis is being made of natural increases in population compared to increases in migration. Population projections are also being made to the year 2000 for each of the municipalities in the county.

The results of the survey are intended to aid "almost any agency that has plans for future needs," accoring to Hekler, who said the project would be completed in the next month.

He anticipates that the information will aid school districts in their efforts to project future building needs, hospitals in determining future bed space requirements, recreational facilities. The United Way and anyone else interested in projecting their future growth.

Following the population report, there will be a report on housing on the basis of the 1970 census which will spell out occupancy characteristics, racial composition, age, vacancy rates, financial character and persons per household among other statistics. It will also be carried out in the various communities of the county.

The surveys are being conducted by the Planning Department aided by federal 701 funds and they must be completed by July 1.

Law Changes Criticism Is Heard

KINGSTON — Mrs. Elizabeth Donnaruma, the mayor's representative on the Kingston Landmarks Preservation Commission, spoke in opposition to changes in the law governing the commission at a public hearing held by Mayor Francis R. Koenig Wednesday night.

Mrs. Donnaruma opposed the section of the new local law which requires Common Council approval of all designations by the commission. Under the original law passed in 1966, Council approval was not required.

Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) spoke in favor of the local law, stating that Council approval would make the designations of historic sites more binding.

There was no discussion on five other local laws which raised the salaries of the city clerk, treasurer, assessor, special city court judge and city judge by $500 per year.

Named to Post by Rockefeller

Abe Lavine New Welfare Chief

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—Abe Lavine, Governor Rockefeller's top labor trouble shooter for the past two years, will take on the forbidding post of state welfare commissioner May 1. The job carries a salary of $42,475 a year and some of the biggest problems in state government.

Rockefeller named Lavine to the post Wednesday night, succeeding George K. Wyman. Wyman resigned weeks ago—after 10 years in the post—when his re-appointment sparked bitter debate and threatened to evoke a floor fight if his re-appointment was sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Lavine, a career government specialist, is currently director of the State Office of Employe Relations. As such, he is heavily involved in the current state negotiations with the Civil Service Employes Association, whose contract with the state expires March 31. The CSEA has threatened to call the 140,000 persons it represents on strike if there is no agreement by then.

In announcing Lavine's appointment, Rockefeller took note of the negotiations and said that was the reason Lavine would not take the welfare post when Wyman's resignation is effective March 31.

Barry Van Lare, the 30-year-old executive deputy commissioner of the welfare agency, whom some had said might succeed Wyman, will serve as acting commissioner for the month of April, Rockefeller said.

Lavine, 49 and a resident of Albany, will be paid $42,475 in the welfare post. He has been director of employe relations since Jan. 2, 1969, and entered state service in the Division of the Budget in 1947.

He eventually became chief budget examiner for management in the Budget Division, then joined the Department of Labor in 1961. He rose to deputy director of the Division of Employment before being named to his present post.

He also served for a brief period as director of the city of Philadelphia's budget bureau in 1953.

A native of Lysander, Onondaga County, he attended Syracuse University and was graduated from the University of California. He holds a master's degree in public administration from the Maxwell School at Syracuse University.

Wyman, the state's welfare chief since September 1, 1962, offered his resignation to Rockefeller earlier this year when it became apparent there would be considerable opposition to his re-appointment in the Senate.

Wyman had been criticized by various senators, including Republican William T. Smith of Big Flats, for his direction of the Social Services Department. Smith contended that Wyman did not properly push the reforms passed by the legislature in the past two years.

In his announcement, Rockefeller said Lavine had "a special combination of experience, talent, and ability that will make him an outstanding leader in the field of social services.

The End

Police in Albany cover the body of Ramon Iacobucci, 26, of Schenectady, who died of an apparent gunshot wound after holding off for three hours a force of 50 policemen who sought to enter the sniper's second-floor apartment. The former heroin addict's troubles began when police tried to arrest him because he possessed a gun. When they finally entered his apartment, he was found dead in a bathtub. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Coast-to-Coast NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST!

Landmark Court Ruling

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — In a decision with potential landmark implications for freedom of the press, New York State's highest court has ruled a judge was wrong to close a trial to the press and public.

The unanimous decision by the State Court of Appeals Wednesday chastised State Supreme Court Justice George Postel for barring the news media from the extortion-conspiracy trial of Carmine Persico in Manhattan last November.

Because the trial, which ended in Persico's acquittal, is long since over, the appeals court said it was dismissing the suit by five reporters protesting Postel's action but only because "the relief requested would now serve no purpose."

The seven-man tribunal left no doubt in the decision written by Chief Judge Stanley Fuld that the burden was on a judge to prove that any action limiting the First Amendment's guarantee of press freedom was justified by a "serious and imminent threat" to "the integrity of the trial."

"But whether the judge has the power in any case to close the courtroom to the public and the press in order to protect the defendant's right to a fair trial is...a question we need not here pass upon," Fuld wrote.

Confining itself to Postel's actions, the court said that had concluded his sealing of the courtroom "was an unwarranted effort to punish and censor the press, and the fact that it constituted a novel form of censorship cannot insulate or shield it from constitutional attack."

Acting on Persico's request, Postel closed the courtroom after newsmen wrote articles about the reputed underworld figure's background.

He had warned that such material could prejudice the defendant's case and had threatened reporters with contempt citiations if they did not desist.

Postel's action was upheld by the Appellate Division when the five reporters sued to get the trial opened.

The Court of Appeals decision would presumably affect other cases in New York where the defendant moves for a closed trial. The latest such instance occurred Tuesday, when a State Supreme Court justice in Queens barred the press from the trial of a Black Panther for murder.

The Persico-Postel case aroused national interest as a probe of the legally vague territory where press freedom and he right to a fair trial appear to collide. Postel decided that the defendant, not the public, had the right to an open trial.

Non-Compliance Vote in Buffalo

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Board of Education awaited the reaction of the State Education Commissioner today after voting Wednesday not to give him a plan he ordered for desegregating city schools.

Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist Jan. 24 ordered the board to produce such a plan by April 1, noting that racial imbalance in Buffalo schools had grown worse in recent years.

Told of the board's action, Nyquist said he would have no comment until he had read a letter the board was sending him on the matter.

In January, he had said that, if Buffalo chose not to comply with his directive he had the power to cut off its state aid and remove the board from office. He said then he expected the board to cooperate.

The board voted 4-3 for non-compliance in a noisy, emotional session attended by more than 400 spectators.

By the same margin, the panel voted to "receive and file" without action a proposal to bus 24,000 of the city's 69,000 white and black pupils to achieve racial balance.

The board also went on record as being "vigorously opposed to any form of forced cross-busing."

Nyquist has issued similar orders for schools in Utica and Mount Vernon.

Mount Vernon took the matter to court after Nyquist's predecessor, the late James E. Allen, began pressing it for more racial balance.

Utica's board is now developing a second desgregation plan after having an earlier one vetoed by the commissioner.

In issuing his order to Buffalo, Nyquist pointed out that the city contained 29 schools that are more than 90 per cent white and 20 schools are more than 90 per cent black. He said the city should develop a way of ensuring that each school would roughly match the overall racial composition of the schools — 60 per cent white, 40 per cent black.

Buffalo's integration effort to date has relied principally upon voluntary busing of inner-city blacks to mostly-white schools on the city's periphery. About 3,000 students are presently bused.

President Nixon's position on busing came up for comment when Board President Arnold B. Gardner, voting in the minority, called Nixon a "good politician but a poor prophet."

Assembly Passes Shawangunk Industrial Bill

ALBANY — The New York State Assembly has passed legislation creating the Town of Shawangunk Industrial Development Agency. The measure was sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

"The bill, passed by a vote of 122 to 4, was drafted," Bell said, "so that the town would have the same kind of agency that is in wide use throughout the state."

The assemblyman explained that the agency will be perpetual in duration with its members to be appointed by the Shawangunk Town Board.

"The use of the agency," Bell said, "will be to futher enhance the economy of the Town of Shawangunk while at the same time protecting its environment."

Assemblyman Bell stated that the legislation was introduced at the request of County Legislator Ralph Brach R-Dist. 9.

Assemblyman Emeel Betros of Dutchess County and Bell who have been attempting to preserve a budget appropriation which funds part-time instructors of volunteer firemen training programs, revealed today that they have been assured by state officials that the budget appropriation would be carefully reviewed to determine if a solution can be found.

The assemblymen said that they are pleased that the matter is being given serious attention particularly in view of new information which has come to light which might affect volunteer fire companies throughout the state if the proposed $62,000 budget cut were to become a reality.

Bell and Betros said that many fire departments have included in their constitutions and by-laws, the requirement that new members must, within a specified time, take and pass the basic firemanic course given by the Division of Fire Safety. Until the test is taken and passed the new volunteer is on a probationary status.

"Failure by the state," explained the assemblymen, "to have this basic course available would result in inadequately trained new volunteer firemen, abrogation of unit by-laws, and could raise the question of active volunteer firemen status with a possible loss of coverage under the Volunteer Firemen's Benefit Law."

Thursday Bell addressed students at New Paltz College, on the legislative process.

The assemblyman's program was entitled "The Law, The Legal Process and Social Justice." A question period followed during which students were invited to explore current issues which are of concern to them.

Mason Discusses State, Education Crises

ALBANY — While the halls of the State Legislature were filled earlier this week with hundreds of protesting City College of New York students urging the extension of free tuition, Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason was fielding questions from a group of upstate teachers who were seeking additional money to expand the state eduation program.

Mason, a former school teacher, didn't see it their way.

I don't think education is starving to death," he told them. "I don't think it is in bad shape at all. But, the state is," he said, alluding to the present fiscal crisis.

"And I don't think it's going to get any better as long as Rocky (Rockefeller) is governor."

Mason, GOP candidate for State Senator in Northern Ulster County told the teachers that the concerns of the state are many — industry, commerce, transportation, the environment . . .

"We are pushing to a point where people are rebelling. Ninety per cent of my mail comes from those complaining about spending and the resultant tax increases," he continued.

Of the present educational system, Mason, who was once called to Albany because his one vote was needed to pass the Taylor Law, said that if he knew what the Taylor Law woud do, he would have stayed home. You need a strong retirement system and adequate pay, but you should hear the other side—the Boards of Education's side regarding increased demands for additional pay raises."

Mason, a former vocational education teacher, also volunteered his thoughts on the BOCES program saying "I think we are going to have more and more trouble with it because BOICES budgets can be passed without submission to the people and because administrators are appointed by Boards of Education who often place defeated board members in the adminsitrative posts. "Once you get the bums in, you can't get rid of them," he concluded.

Fishing Invitation Requested

RHINEBECK

By TIM SCHUSTER

One member of the Dutchess County's Soil Conservation Service advocates that persons with farm ponds to "invite all their friends and some of their enemies to help them "fish their ponds.

One of the major problems in keeping good-sized fish in these ponds, says John J. Porter, is the lack of enough angling.

For many years, soil and water conservation districts of New York State have had, as an important part of their program, pond construction. Thousands of ponds and lakes have been created by landowners as district cooperators, with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service.

Porter notes that usually those landowners who built ponds wanted them stocked with fish. Fingerling stocking fish were furnished through the Department of Interior that maintains hatcheries for this purpose.

Large mouth bass alone, with bluegill sunfish, were the usual stocking recommendation for he warmer ponds and trout for cooler ponds.

In this area the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, which reviews the applications feels bluegills are not right except for unusually favorable circumstances. The bluegill is well establishe in local waters, "thanks probably to fishermen who have done a little moonlight stocking," he notes.

Most of the local lakes now have them and they are doing well in these natural lakes, attaining eating size and furnishing good fishing both winter and summer.

Porter says that it is a different story in the small farm ponds. "Landowners just don't fish their ponds hard enough. Bluegills are prolific breeders and after a few years they are so numerous in these little ponds that their average size goes down and they are no longer interesting to the angler."

However, the population can be managed in other ways besides fishing. Some seine the pond, taking out surplus fish this way. They can be poisoned off, then restocked with a new balance of bass and bluegills, but these methods are seldom used.

Porter suggests taking advantage of these fish and fighting inflation at the same time. The consumption of fishing products has jumped from six billion pounds in 1948 to 17 billion pounds in 1968. This is largely composed to halibut, tuna, salmon, crab, lobster, and scallops.

"The price of these products on the grocer's shelf will scare you," he says. "Remember when you bought a can of pink salmon for the cat?"

Millions of farm ponds are teeming with fish just as tasty and edible as the ocean fish. This comparable tonnage of high protein food has not been wasted in Europe or Asia. The Chinese were active in fish farming 2,000 years ago.

Porter forecasts this source of food being tapped at some future date. "But meanwhile, don't ask for bluegills — they're not compatible with our way of life."

Water Monitoring Program Sponsored by Clearwater

COLD SPRING

Hudson River Sloop Restoration Inc., sponsor of the sloop Clearwater, has announced a water quality monitoring program to document the industrial wastes being dumped into the Hudson River and Long Island Sound.

Federal regulations require all industrial plants to file information regarding quantities, concentrations, and absolute weights of all waste substances. Copies of these reports will be furnished the crew of the Clearwater for checking of the accuracy of the information furnished in them and will be the basis for pollution reports for each county along the Hudson River and Long Island Sound.

Pollution reports will be made available to interested organizations in the Hudson Valley. Students at Lakeland High School, Peekskill, have already tested waste discharges from several plants, established reasons to believe applications contained inaccuracies, and turned their findings over to the appropriate officials, including the United States Attorney for Southern New York.

In January representatives of Hudson River Sloop Restoration publicized preliminary information about polluters in Bergen County, New Jersey, and Dutchess County, New York. Charles Pike, a New Jersey water pollution official, took action against 10 Bergen County firms on the basis of the reports.

The Lever Brothers plant in Bergen County has publicly committed itself to installation of a "closed loop" waste disposal system and Texaco, Inc. has similarly committed itself to improving its treatment facilities in Dutchess County, HRSR officials said.

Landsman Group Plans

RHINEBECK

There are more than 100 members in the Landsman Kill Trail Association of Rhinebeck, and the group is looking for more in its annual winter "layoff."

The Association is comprised of people who enjoy riding horses and ponies, by themselves or in groups. Members have gained permission from many area landowners to cross their land on more than 40 miles of trail.

Plans for 1972 include the improvement of present trails, with the addition of jumps on some sections.

There is an annual Spring ride and picnic, an annual Fall ride, and many smaller rides throughout the year to be scheduled. The group also participates in the Memorial Day parade in Rhinebeck.

The function of the Educational Committee has been expanded to include the planning of programs for members and guests which are expected to be both educational and fun.

Applications for membership may be obtained by writing Mrs. Jerry Paydon, Ackert Hook Road, Rhinebeck, N.Y. 12572.

Membership dues are: family — $15; senior — $10; up to 18 years of age — $3.

Curing Poverty

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, the Connecticut Democrat, is at the point of despair in his search for a better way to attack the problem of poverty in the United States of America.

His ardor for the Family Assistance Plan and its guaranteed minimum income for all Americans has cooled. He can see no tangible results for the $17 billion which the Office of Economic Opportunity has spent on anti-poverty programs since 1965. He has even suggested that the wisest course might be for the government to take the money being spent on poverty program and their supporting bureaucracy and simply pass it out directly to the poor.

This desperate proposal does have one virtue. It recognizes that the ultimate aim of any anti-poverty program, is to put money into the pockets of the poor, and that the present system funnels too much tax revenue into a burgeoning bureaucracy. However, a handout may keep the wolf away from the door temporarily, but it has never been effective in striking at the root causes of poverty.

Secretary Elliot Richardson of the Health, Education and Welfare Department points out that much of the $31.5 billion "welfare" total in the federal budget is already being dispersed in direct payments to individuals, both poor and non-poor, through welfare, Social Security and other programs. Neither these expenditures nor other billions going into OEO programs are producing the kind of progress toward reducing poverty that Senator Ribicoff, and everyone else for that matter, is looking for.

The vast majority of Americans are not poor because they are producing goods and providing services for each other and for our customers abroad. They are both contributors and beneficiaries in the most successful anti-poverty program ever devised, the American free enterprise system. Sen. Carl Curtis, the Nebraska Republican, may have this in mind when he suggests that the government will best cure poverty problems by trying to create a more healthy economy.

Senator Ribicoff should not be puzzled at the persistence of poverty in America when billions are being drained from our economy to support unproductive government programs—especially those which train people for jobs that do not exist or hire them to perform make-work tasks. These programs that do no more than treat the illness could be hindering the process of economic growth which offers the best hope for its cure.

Fishing Rights

At the rate the foreign fishing fleet is depleting our stock of fish, there will be no sizable bodies of any species left off the east coast of the United States in a very short period of time, warns a New Jersey commercial fisherman. Captain Howard Bogan, noted especially a fleet of 32 fishing vessels, anchored 16 miles off shore over one of the best fishing areas on the east coast.

Bogan first noted the fleet in the spring of 1967, some 60 miles southeast of its present location. Now it is in as close as 12 miles, "devouring one of our natural resources and with no concern for replenishment."

"What would happen if a foreign country began cutting all our timber, draining off our gas and oil, and mining all of our coal about 10,000 times as fast as we are presently doing?" Bogan asks.

Taking a leaf from the action of some Latin American nations, Bogan suggests that a complete moratorium at least for one year should be declared concerning foreign fishing vessels within the 200-mile limit. Thereafter the number of foreign vessels permitted to fish within 200 miles and the amount of fish to be taken should be limited.

At that, we would not be as tough as Brazil, for instance, which has declared a 200-mile limit for fishing off its shores and patrols the area to enforce the edict. So does Equador, which has interned several American fishing vessels and fined them heavily for violating its ban.

The question of open fishing areas is getting more and more serious as nations compete for the sea food to fulfill the needs of their growing populations. We have made no formal protests when Russian vessels have come within sight of our shores, though we did intern a small Russian fishing fleet that violated the 12-mile limit off Alaska recently. We should investigate the depletion of our fishing grounds and set a more realistic fishing limit, whether it be 100 or 200 miles, that would protect and preserve the bounty of the seas around us.

Jack Anderson Says

Super-Sleuths Tracking Columnist

WASHINGTON — The White House, in its effort to discredit us and whitewash the International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) scandal, is conducting a massive undercover campaign.

The manpower has been drawn from the White House, Justice Department, Republican National Committee and the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Even the Justice Department's Internal Security Division (ISD), which is supposed to investigate spies and saboteurs, has been put on our trail.

Dozens of government gumshoes, presidential aides and political flunkies have been assigned to investigate us, to prepare attacks on us and to plant stories in the press against us.

ITT has also retained the world's most famous and formidable private investigating firm, Intertel, to assist with the investigation. This is the same outfit that broke Swiss bank secrecy and exposed Clifford Irving's phony autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Intertel submits its investigative reports to ITT, which has made them available to the White House. Presidential aides, in turn, have fed the material to Republican senators for use against us.

Incriminating Memo

Here's the incredible, behind-the-scenes story:

At first, the strategy was to discredit Dita Beard, the salty-tongued ITT lobbyist, who wrote the incriminating memo suggesting there had been a link between the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases and a commitment from ITT to help finance the Republican convention.

Her physician, Dr. Victor L. Liszka, conferred with Justice Department officials Harlington Wood, Jr., and John T. Duffner on the eve of his appearance at the Senate hearing. He testified that Mrs. Beard had told him she wrote the memo but was "mad and disturbed" at the time.

When this tack failed, the President's men tried to peddle the idea that we had conspired with Dita Beard to concoct the damaging memo. This was planted with Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., who rushed out with a statement questioning 'the veracity of Anderson's account of how he obtained the memorandum and perhaps even on the origin and content of the memorandum itself."

One of the Justice Department's counterspies, John Martin, Internal Security's Analysis and Evaluation chief, tried to establish a link between Dita Beard and us. Intertel's president, Robert Peloquin, and his chief gumshoe, Ed Mullin, also worked on this angle.

Their "evidence" was routed through the White House to Senator Cook. This too, backfired.

Then began the belated campaign to reverse the doctor's testimony and to persuade Mrs. Beard to change her story. An active and ardent California Republican, David W. Fleming, appeared as Mrs. Beard's attorney. He held a series of meetings with top Republicans and ITT officers in Washington, then issued a notarized statement signed by the poor woman claiming the memo was a forgery.

White House Warriors

This latest "evidence," significantly, was released in Washington by Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott. Fleming also made statements to the press that sounded more as if he were representing the Nixon Administration than Dita Beard.

Meanwhile, President Nixon's new Deputy Communications Director, Ken W. Clawson, has been handling press strategy. He has advised Senator Cook and contacted newsmen in an attempt to promote stories against us.

Two other White House aides, Jonathan Rose and George Crawford, also slipped around to Sen. Norris Cotton's office with a draft speech for the New Hampshire Republican to deliver on the ITT affair. Senators Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin, both Arizona Republicans, also delivered speeches that were prepared by the Republican National Committee.

Army Heart

It isn't often that we can report a heartwarming human story about the Army. But such is the case of Captain and Mrs. David Kelley and their four-year-old son, David, Jr.

Since age one, young David has had a form of cancer known as Wilm's Tumor. Until now, he has received excellent treatment at Walter Reed Hospital. But recently his father, presently stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., was notified he would have to leave the service because of personnel cuts.

The family could not afford continued medical treatment, so they petitioned the Army to permit David to continue receiving medical care from the military.

The Kelleys feel the Army is at least partially responsible for their son's condition. Mrs. Kelley was ten weeks pregnant with David when she had an automobile accident. She was repeatedly x-rayed at an Army hospital and some doctors think the x-ray could have had something to do with David's disease.

The cancer was discovered on David's kidney when he was but a year old. It was removed, but another one was soon found on a lung. David was treated with cobalt and chemicals, to no avail. Part of the right lung was cut out.

Then last year, physicians had to remove a growth from David's intestine. They found other tumors on his forehead and spinal cord and treated them with radiation and surgery.

The lucky youngster is now confined to a wheelchair but he is beginning to walk again. Years of expensive treatment lie ahead, treatment that the Kelleys cannot afford once the father leaves the military.

Recently, Acting Secretary Kenneth Belieu ruled favorably on the Kelley's petition. It is good to be reminded once in a while that the Army has a heart.

David Lawrence Says

Funds for Schools

WASHINGTON — President Nixon sent Congress last Friday a message of more than 8,000 words which really should be studied by city and state officials and leaders of civic groups who have been concerned with not only the problem of school busing but the whole field of education.

Some news dispatches on the subject have given the impression that the President wants the courts to be overruled. What he actually set forth, however, is a plan that would deal legislatively with the entire problem and clarify it for the judges who are confronted with all kinds of cases growing out of school desegregation. Mr. Nixon said:

"The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution—under which the school-desegregation cases have arisen—provides that 'the Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article."

"Until now, enforcement has been left to the courts—which have operated within a limited range of available remedies, and in the limited context of case law rather than of statutory law. I propose that the Congress now accept the responsibility and use the authority given to it under the Fourteenth Amendment to clear up the confusion which contradictory court orders have created, and to establish reasonable national standards."

The President recommended that there be an immediate stop to further new busing orders by the Federal Courts while uniform national criteria are being established so that courts in all sections and all states would have 'a common set of standards to guide them." He explained that the lower courts have been rendering a variety of opinions and, since it takes a long time for them to reach the Supreme Court of Appeals, there is in the meantime uncertainty as to what can or cannot be done by the local school authorities. Mr. Nixon said that the measures he proposes "would not roll back the constitution, or undo the great advances that have been made in ending school segregation, or undermine the continuing drive for equal rights."

The moratorium the President suggests is really a request to the courts to forego making new decisions on the complicated subject until Congress has acted on legislation to deal with questions raised by school desegregation and to furnish educational assistance. He is convinced that this would help the courts in deciding desegregation cases and "could render busing orders unnecessary."

Mr. Nixon recognizes the problems of the judiciary and declared in his message that the Equal Educational Opportunities Act which he sent to Congress "is designed to give the courts a new and broader base on which to decide future cases, and to place the emphasis where it belongs—on better education for all of our children." The President insisted that "racial balance" is not required and that students should be assigned to schools nearest their homes unless doing so would result in a greater degree of racial segregation. He said that where "deliberate segregation" was formerly practiced, educational agencies have "an affirmative duty to remove all vestiges of the dual system."

On the whole the Presidential document is a comprehensive anaylsis of the requirements of the nation's educational system, with a series of recommendations on how it can be improved, including "federal financial assistance and incentives." Mr. Nixon believes that, by giving them a new set of standards, the courts would be able to enforce the basic consitiutional guarantees in different ways. He said:

"A stay would relieve the pressure on the Congress to act on the long-range legislation without full and adequate consideration. By providing immediate relief from a course that increasing millions of Americans are finding intolerable, it would allow the debate on permanent solutions to proceed with less emotion and more reason. For these reasons—and also for the sake of the additional children faced with busing now—I urge that the Congress quickly give its approval to the Student Transportation Moratorium Act."

The President discussed the idea of a constitutional amendment on busing but argued that it would take too long to get one adopted and that it would not be of any help for some time to come. He contends that legislation is necessary at once so that the courts can be assisted in their decisions. The President feels that much has already been accomplished in the handling of the desegregation problem and that what the cities and communities really need is financial aid so as to provide better schools.

Martin Nolan Says

Cutting the Cheese in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE — As sort of the O.K. Corral of 1972, Wisconsin's role as the showdown state for Democratic candidates will demand much of the candidates. The politics is as diverse and rugged as the landscape. Resolutely unsophisticated (and intelligently suspicious) its voters are immune to media blitzes and expect personal campaigning. They are also tolerant of ethnic politics.

Democratic Sens. William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson are the foremost physical-fitness acolytes in the Senate, trained in Wisconsin winters. They have also preserved their health by avoiding endorsement-seekers who would have them tell their constituents how to vote.

In Wisconsin candidates have to forage for themselves, among the four million residents, finding their own contortions, diets and physical fitness drills.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson began his campaign in the mostly Republican town of Westby near the Minnesota line. But it wasn't the 1,586 people he was looking for; it was the food.

Jackson ate a dish of lefse, a Norwegian potato-and-flour delicacy, to emphasize the fact that he, like two per cent of Wisconsin, was of Norwegian stock. He watched Norwegian square dancers and talked of the virtues of the old country.

The Census Bureau says that Wisconsin is only two per cent Polish, but that figure fails to account for the more emphatic resistance Polish-Americans maintain against assimilation. In Milwaukee Poles are Poles unto several generations beyond the Census Bureau definition of only foreign-born and first-generation.

No one in Wisconsin is resisting assimilation as vigorously as Sen. Edmund S. Muskie. After trying out the Yankee, slightly-homogenized Lincolnesque national-leadership role in New Hampshire and Florida, Muskie has rediscovered his roots as eagerly as he has reacquired his taste for kielbasa, sausage and cabbage.

Muskie hadn't spoken Polish since he was four years old, but in the south side of Milwaukee — just as in Southside Chicago a week ago — there was Muskie with the gift of tongues talking of pride in the old country.

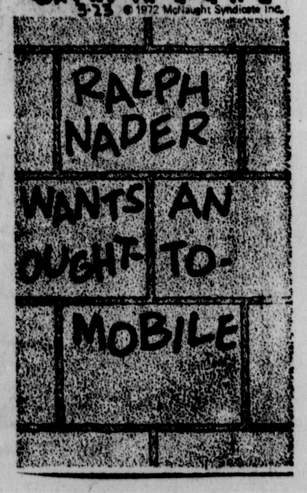

What do you do if you represent the most-deprived ethnic group among candidates — white Anglo-Saxon Protestants? If you're John Lindsay you find yourself catapulted onto a night's sleep on the living-room sofa of Art Young on 28th Street here. You take the bus with Art at 6 a.m. to his steelworker's job and then spend the rest of the day talking about Art.

"He takes home $112 a week." Lindsay tells audiences about his host. "He's tried to live within the rules but his eight kids have little chance for college, his wife Joyce needs dental work and they can't afford it. I spent a night on his sofa, and for Art Young the American dream isn't coming true."

Mayor Lindsay was the most amphibian candidate in Florida, photographed with scuba-diving gear, on bicycles, probably in a parachute if that would help. This new wrinkle in his campaign ought at least be more educational.

Dawn at the factory gate, recognition of old-country values and customs, good cheer and earnestness — Wisconsin demands much for its showdown choice. The voter's high expectations have largely been met in state government and in the Congressional delegation and they see no need to relax standards for a Presidential candidate.

Ellenville Detective . . . . . Now Demands Back Pay

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — Charles Freer, who maintains he has been suspended as a detective of the Ellenville Police Department, has written the Village of Ellenville requesting his back and continuing pay, and the village has refused saying Freer has resigned.

Freer was arrested Feb. 7 on a charge of endangering the morals of a minor and pleaded guilty and orally resigned from the force. The following day, his attorneys, Weinsoff, Weinsoff & Weinsoff of Ellenville informed the village Freer had withdrawn his guilty plea and withdrawn his resignation.

In an interwiew at the time, Police Chief William C. Trapnell said Freer had been immediately suspended when he withdrew his resignation. The chief and the village now maintain that the oral withdrawal of Freer's oral resignation was never accepted, and Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg told The Freeman that Freer had also resigned under Rule 20 of the Ulster County Civil Service regulations when he failed to report for work for 10 consecutive days without an approved excuse.

Irving Weinsoff, representing Freer, doesn't buy either view of Freer's resignation. Weinsoff said Freer had withdrawn his resignation, and he had been told he was suspended by Trapnell.

According to civil service law, Freer could have been suspended for 30 days. The 30 days, if he was suspended, are up, and he wants his back pay and to be put on the payroll until his case is decided.

Weinsoff said the oral resignation by Freer was a bit dubious anyway. "How many oral resignations from the police force has the village accepted in the last five years?" he asked.

According to Nirenberg, the village accepted Freer's resignation and rejected his withdrawal. He said Trapnell consulted him on the withdrawal, and Trapnell was advised to continue to consider Freer resigned. Trapnell confirmed Nirenberg's statement.

Nirenberg said Freer was never served with any suspension papers and does not face departmental charges because he is no longer a member of the force.

Freer was never sent any suspension papers ". . . because we never felt we had to," said Nirenberg.

The village received Freer's letter Wednesday, and intended to send their letter out the same day.

Weinsoff said if Freer did not get his pay, he would have to consult with him "to see which way he would want to protect his interests."

"My client is presumed innocent until proven guilty," said Weinsoff.

"There is no reason why he shouldn't be getting his pay."

If he does not get his pay, Weinshoff said court action would be open to him, probably in the form of a State Supreme Court action to force the village to pay him.

Freer is the last of the Ellenville police involved in the recent sex scandal. He will be arraigned in County Court in Kingston Friday.

He is reportedly charged with taking nude photographs of an underage female.

Ellenville Patrolman Carl Mayer was fired after departmental hearings, and Patrolmen Ronald Krom and Anthony Yerkes quit, saying newspaper coverage of the affair made it impossible for them to continue as Ellenville policemen.

No criminal charges were ever filed against Yerkes. Krom and Mayer had rape charges thrown out of village court for lack of evidence. Krom was additionally charged with the second degree sale of a dangerous drug (marijuana), but the charge is still in the Ulster County District Attorney's office.

Dems Veto Court Action

ELLENVILLE — The Ellenville Democrats have decided against any court action concerning the elections held in the village Tuesday, but are going to ask the Republicans to agree to reexamine the absentee ballots.

Harold Brown, Wawarsing Town Democratic chairman, said he would ask Wawarsing Town Republican Chairman Frank Harkin to accept the proposal. Harkin was out of town Wednesday.

The Republicans swept the Tuesday elections, regaining the majority on the village board they had lost in last year's election.

However, Republican Robert Woodhouse beat Democratic incumbent David Kramer for a trustee seat by only seven votes, 829 for Woodhouse and 822 for Kramer.

Following the election, Brown had said he would seek a court order to impound the machines, recount the votes, and check over all registration.

The Democrats decided against it Wednesday morning, but are going to seek the mutual agreement with the Republicans to look over the absentee ballots. Kramer and Woodhouse were tied at the end of the machine ballot count, with 775 a piece. Woodhouse picked up his margin of victory from the absentee ballots.

Brown said he doubted any mistakes had been made, as his party had their referees there too, but he thought the seven vote margin should be verified.

A switch of four votes could make the difference," he said.

Newburgh Police, Meter Maid Arraigned

GOSHEN, N. Y. (UPI) — A former Newburgh police detective, indicted twice in recent weeks by an Orange County grand jury involved in a wide-ranging investigation of alleged corruption, has been arraigned on new charges.

John R. Maney, a former detective sergeant on the Newburgh police department, was charged with tampering with evidence, conspiracy to tamper with evidence, and perjury in an indictment returned Wednesday.

Also arraigned on the same charges were Elizabeth Randolph, a former Newburgh meter maid. Det. James R. Williams, still on the force although on vacation, was charged only with the tampering counts.

In addition, narcotics charges against 11 individuals were dismissed at the request of the district attorney's office because of the involvement of certain policemen in their cases.

The perjury charges against Maney and Mrs. Randolph stemmed from signed statements, presented in court by Assistant District Attorney Abraham Weisman, which said that the two gave false testimony to a jury that resulted in the conviction of Melvin Moore, 28, of Newburgh, on narcotics charges. Moore was sentenced last July to up to 12 years in prison but was released early this month after Weisman acted.

The indictments against Williams and Mrs. Randolph were the only ones that have been returned against them.

Maney first was indicted earlier this year with two other officers, including Newburgh Police Chief Humbert Cappelli, on charges related to burglaries. On March 3, he and 10 policemen were indicted by the grand jury which has been investigating allegations of corruption on the Newburgh force.

Orange County Court Judge Angelo J. Ingrassia signed orders dismissing charges against 11 narcotics suspects at the request of District Attorney Jerome S. Cohen. Cohen said the grand jury agreed unanimously that none of the indicted officers should be produced as witnesses for the people in connection with the charges.

Poughkeepsie Police Nab Murder Suspect

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — William John Ermo, 18, was arrested Wednesday and charged by police with murder in connection with the death of Ursala Schiba, 16, also of Poughkeepsie.

Police said Ermo was jailed without bail after he pleaded innocent before a city court judge.

Miss Schiba's body was found Aug. 26 in an isolated wooded lot, 23 days after she disappeared.

Details of the case have not been disclosed by police.

Charges Reduced In Area Drug Case

ELLENVILLE

Drug charges against five persons arrested Saturday morning by Ellenville police have been reduced, a felony count against one man has been withdrawn, and attorneys for the defendants have moved to suppress the search warrant under which the raid was conducted.

James Peter Allen, 30, of 6 Broadhead Street, Ellenville, Russell Robinson, 21, of the Bronx, Barbara Gravo, also known as Barbara Driscoll, 26, of Lyndhurst, N. J., Fred Newkirk, 23, and Maria Fernandez, 22, both of 181 Center Street, Ellenville, where the arrests were made, were arraigned Wednesday night before Village Justice Ronald W. Elias.

Elias said that a charge of criminal selling of a drug in the fourth degree against Allen had been withdrawn by Assistant District Attorney Joseph J. Traficanti Jr. The charge a Class B felony, carried a maximum penalty of 25 years in prison.

Charges against all five defendants of criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the fourth degree, a Class C felony, were reduced to sixth degree possession, A Class A misdemeanor. The difference in charges is related to the amount of the drug seized, with sixth degree possession involving less than one-eighth of an ounce.

The five are still charged with loitering for the purpose of administering a drug, a Class B misdemeanor, and criminal possession of a hypodermic instrument to administer drugs, a Class A misdemeanor.

Allen and Newkirk are free on $2,500 bail. Robinson is confined to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail and the two women were confined in lieu of $1,000 bail each, Elias said. The Gravo woman also faces bad check charges, police said.

The Ellenville legal firm of Weinsoff, Weinsoff and Weinsoff, representing all five defendants, has requested a suppression hearing on the search warrant which will be held before Elias on April 4 at 7 p.m. If the suppression is upheld it would bar the use of any physical evidence sized in the raid.

A spokesman from the district attorney's office said that the withdrawal of the second degree drug sale charge against Allen does not preclude the possibility of future prosecution.

Shown behind Reid are his wife, Mary, and his oldest son, Stewart. (UPI)

Cost of Living Shows Sharp Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of soaring food prices, the cost of living rose one-half of 1 per cent in February—sharpest one-month rise since last summer, the Labor Department said today.

The 0.5 per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index, which measures retail prices across the nation, was the same when based on actual prices and after adjustment for seasonal variations.

Food prices registered the greatest one-month jump in 14 years, 1.7 per cent when seasonally adjusted, with meat prices accounting for nearly three-fourths of it. But fresh fruit and vegetable prices also were up sharply.

Not since March, 1958, had there been a larger one-month jump. Food prices that month soared 1.9 per cent.

The over-all food price index includes both groceries and restaurant meals. The increase in prices at the supermarket level alone was even greater—1.9 per cent in February. This also was a 14-month high.

The 0.5 per cent rise in the over-all index was the biggest one month jump, on both a seasonally adjusted and unadjusted basis, since last June. That was two months before President Nixon imposed a 90-day freeze on wages and prices.

The report was likely to fuel a growing debate within and outside the government on food prices.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has defended recent farm price increases — particularly for meat—while consumer and labor critics of the administration's economic control program say something should be done to stop the spiral.

Butz not only has disagreed with nongovernment critics but the head of the government's price-control agency as well. C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission, took public issue last week with Butz' defense of higher farm prices.

POW-MIA WEEK PLANNERS—March 26 through April 1 has been proclaimed National Week of Concern for Prisoners of War and Missing In Action in Southeast Asia. Harry Maisenhelder, left front, and Robert Post, Robert Winne, left rear, and Phil Faluotico, of the Americanism Committee of Kingston Post 150, American Legion, are shown as they made plans for local observance of the "Week of Concern."

Port Ewen Fire Chief Issues Annual District Report

PORT EWEN — Fire Chief Clark H. Mains of the Port Ewen Fire Department noted in his annual report recently submitted at the annual banquet that committees will soon be appointed to arrange for gala events to be highlighted later this year during observance of the department's 75th anniversary.

Chief Mains reported that a Baby Sitters Training program conducted during 1971 by the fire units and laides auxiliary proved a success. Six classes were held with competent instructors in charge to explain problems that are frequently encountered by baby sitters.

In 1971, the department responded to a total of 28 alarms. Ten structure fires two blazes in boats, eight vehicle fires, and seven brush or grass in addition to two dump fires were recorded.

The department called for assistance from the Coast Guard at a barge fire. Other mutual aid was received from Kingston and Esopus during fire at Lew's Delicatessen and luncheonette.

On four occasions last year, Port Ewen sent apparatus and men to Kingston to cover up during serious fires.

Fire apparatus mileage for the year was 511 miles for Engine (291) 250 miles for Squad (292), and 158 miles for Utility Truck (293). Equipment used at fires included 800 feet of booster hose, 2,600 feet of 1½-inch hose, 870 feet of 2½-inch hoseline, 750 feet of 3 inch hose and 250 feet of ladders.

Equipment used at fire drills included 3850 feet of 1½-inch hose, 5740 feet of 2½-inch hose, 700 feet of 3-inch hose and 100 feet of booster hoseline.

Dutchess Society Begins Geriatric Care Study

POUGHKEEPSIE — The Board of Directors of the Society for Mental Health has begun a feasibility study to determine the need for a Dutchess County Geriatric Day Care Center.

Heading the committee conducting the study is Winfield B. Van Bramer, past president of the society and recently retired director of personal services at Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

"This study of geriatric needs was first suggested by the Commissioner of Mental Hygiene, Dr. Lawrence Sweeney, and it will be our task to determine how many of our elderly residents would be in need of such a service," Van Bramer said.

The day care center would serve elderly persons in the community who cannot be left alone during the day when other members of the family are working.

Other committee members are Mrs. Henrietta Coombs, executive director, Dutchess County Association for Senior Citizens, Miss Sarah Jo Davis, director of social services, Vassar Hospital; Miss Maureen Quinlan, community mental health nurse, Hudson River State Hospital; Dr. Anita Zorzoli, professor of biology, Vassar College; and Mrs. James Stropher, director, Visiting Nurse Service.

Also Dr. Ernest M. Gruenberg, chief of psychiatric research, Hudson River State Hospital; Dr. Courtenay L. Bennett, director, Dutchess County unit, Hudson River State Hospital; Mrs. Lou Glasse, director of family advocacy, Family Counseling Service; and Mrs. Kathryn Henning, director of nursing, Department of Health.

Congress Approves Amendment On Equal Rights for Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending four decades of reluctance and indecision, Congress has approved a proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide equal rights for women.

The 84-8 Senate vote Wednesday that completed congressional action on the proposal brought shouts of joy and a spirited champagne party by supporters.

But Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who lost 10 attempts to modify the amendment, said: "You are crucifying women on a cross of equality...Forgive them, Father, they know not what they do."

To take effect, the amendment must be ratified by legislatures of 38 states within seven years. It would become effective two years after ratification.

"It finally happened," said Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y.

"I don't believe this amendment will have the effect of creating identical human beings. I do believe it will create identical legal rights," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., floor manager of the amendment.

Ervin, who doggedly led a small band of senators against the amendment in four days of debate, argued that laws discriminating against women should be changed at the state level, not by constitutional amendment.

Proponents of the amendment said that would be too slow.

Ervin sought to have the amendment modified to preserve laws requiring fathers to support their children, to keep women out of the draft, and out of combat, but he lost each test.

The military issue carried much of the debate, with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, floating images of women in combat boots, toting M16s "and being made prisoners in the jungles."

However, Bayh predicted that only a small number of women would ever be assigned to combat units.

He also predicted the measure would have little affect on support payments because "most fathers have the primary responsibility of supporting their children, not because they are fathers, not because they are men, but because they are the primary source of income for their families."

Pan Am Executive Resigns Top Post

NEW YORK (UPI)—Najeeb Halaby resigned Wednesday as chairman and chief executive officer of Pan American World Airlines, which has lost $120 million since he became president in mid-1968.

The announcement that Halaby, 54, was resigning and would be succeeded by William T. Seawell who joined the company four months ago, came hours after the airline revealed that its losses in February totaled $10.9 million.

Although Pan Am's four-sentence announcement did not spell out the reason for the resignation, there were reports that the board of directors had given Halaby an ultimatum either to resign or being fired.

Pan Am said he had accepted 'the invitation of the board to continue as a director and to stand for re-election at the annual meeting (May 9)."

Halaby, it said, "plans to enter the field of international trade and venture capital and will shortly announce creation of a new activity in this area." Details of what that activity may involve were not revealed.

Halaby, chief of the Federal Aviation Administration in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and a protege of Juan Trippe, who founded Pan Am in 1927 and made it the nation's biggest international airline, became a senior vice president in 1965. In May, 1968, he was appointed president of the company and was elected chairman of the board in 1970.

During his tenure, inflation and increased competition affected most of the nation's airlines. However, in the past sevreal months, many American airlines have been pulling ahead while Pan Am has continued to lose money. Since September, 1969, the company has laid off 13 per cent of its workers.

Seawell, 54, joined Pan Am in November, leaving a post as president of the American subsidiary of Rolls-Royce Ltd. Previously, he had been a vice president of American Airlines.

Rolls-Royce, a British company, went into receivershp in 1971 largely because of cost overruns in its development of the Lockheed L-1011 Tristar engine.

A brigadier general in the Air Force, Seawell retired from the military in 1963, after serving as commandant of cadets at the Air Force Academy.

Sheriff Investigating Burglaries

STONE RIDGE

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department is continuing its investigation into a pair of burglaries that occurred Tuesday night.

According to a report by First Sergeant Donald Policastro, a storage shed near the archery course at Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge was entered sometime between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. Tuesday. Police said entry was gained by smashing the lock on the shed door. UCCC officials are conducting an inventory of the shed's contents to determine if any items were stolen. The shed contained archery equipment and targets.

Policastro also reported that a house on Union Center Road in the Town of Esopus was apparently burglarized early Tuesday night. A neighbor who called police said he saw two youths running from the unoccupied home. An investigation by police later revealed several sleeping bags inside the house. The house is owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Caycedo of Brooklyn.

Police Check Theft of Tires

KINGSTON

A reported theft of two snow tires from a car parked near the Kingston Trust Company, was under investigation today by Kingston detectives.

John Pulvertinti of 275 Fair Street, complained to police Wednesday that the tires were missing. He valued them at $120.

Detectives also investigated a complaint from Mrs. Lewton Brain of New Paltz, who said she was visiting at the Kingston Hospital when a small purse containing $5, keys and other articles was taken.

Michael Leopold

The Other Day

An educator said, "The purpose of education is not to make anything of anybody, but simply to open the minds of everyone . . . to go from cocksure ignorance to thoughtful uncertainty." Another thought on life was Ben Franklin's method of disagreeing with someone. Disagreeing without being disagreeable was one of his hallmarks. He would reply to an opponent, "Well, on this point, I agree. But on the other, if you don't mind, may I take exception?" Tough man to argue with, eh? But there will be no argument from us when you ask for the very best service and value!

St. Francis Hospital Fund Raising Dinner

Dr. Peale Addresses Dutchess Group

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale addressed about 600 people at an informal community dinner Wednesday evening given to kick off the St. Francis Hospital $3 million fund-raising drive.

The development program's largest single components will encompass an expansion of outpatient facilities; placing greater emphasis on preventive medicine; and providing a new special care unit for the critically ill or injured.

Total cost for the development is estimated at from $9 to $10 million, with the public fund drive goal of $3 million already halfway attained. Federal grants and funded indebtedness will provide the balance.

Dr. Peale, perhaps the most widely read Protestant minister in the world, pastor of Marble Collegiate Church in New York City and director of the Foundation for Christian Living in Pawling, addressed himself to applying his power of "positive thinking" to the St. Francis situation.

"The more problems you have, the more alive you are," he intoned, mixing in numerous anecdotes with his homespun philosophy. He said he was glad to become involved in one more problem, the St. Francis fund drive.

Dr. Vincent Russo, president of the medical-dental staff at St. Francis, outlined the specific goals and plans for the hospital. He noted that the program "is designed first to reduce the need for hospitalization through expansion of our outpatient facilities."

Secondly, "it will lessen the chances of extended and costly hospital care through early detection of diseases . . ." and lastly, "we will provide a special care unit to give the best treatment available to the critically ill or injured."

The building program will provide five enlarged and renovated areas: a new and enlarged outpatient facility; modernization and expansion of the emergency area; new special care, intensive care, and coronary care units; expanded laboratory and X-ray units; and modernization of patient care areas.

It was stressed that the future of hospitals can no longer rest with treated those already critcally ill because of the lack of space and money available.

The term "ambulatory care" was noted as a portion of the outpatient concept, whereby persons could have necessary testing done without taking up valuable hospital bed space.

For example, patients who were routinely admitted for diagnosis for gastrointestinal illness can be treated on an ambulatory basis when this new unit is developed.

A prospective first of its type in the community will be the burn unit. Its controlled environment will alleviate the rapid spread of infection, the major cause of burn fatalities.

The new emergency center will be equipped with its own operating room, which will double as an acute medical resuscitation and shock area.

The emergency center will be constructed connecting with the front of the present building with most of the remaining new construction to take palce to the rear.

And, in line with the pressing need for new hospital beds and the current waiting list for surgery, the plan call for an addition of about 75 beds, bring the total for St. Francis to 325 beds.

Bishop Joseph Pernicone, Dutchess and Putnam Counties, represented Cardinal Cooke at the affair, held at the Daystrom Building on Route 55.

Congratulatory telegrams were read from Senator James Buckley, Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

BIRTH CONTROL VICTORY — Birth control crusader Bill Baird, who just arrived in Boston, Mass. from New Paltz, is greeted by his ten-year-old son, shortly after learning that the U. S. Supreme Court overturned his conviction for delivering a birth control lecture at Boston University and for handing a package of vaginal foam to an unmarried woman. The court ruled that single persons may obtain birth control devices the same as married persons. Massachusetts, like 24 other states, restricts single person's access to birth control devices. Baird lectured at New Paltz State Tuesday night and said if his conviction was overturned it would be an "incredible victory" for birth control proponents. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Situation Is Brighter For COG Ulster Colony

SITUATION IS HD

By WADE BURKHART

ULSTER HEIGHTS

Things are looking up for the Ulster Heights colony of the Children of God in its fight to stay in the old hotel it is presently in.

They are going to have to vacate the hotel unless they can bring it up to meet the standards of the multiple residency laws in the Town of Wawarsing, but one of the most expensive modifications of the old hotel has been dropped by the town building inspector, Donald Mekulik.

Mekulik, who inspected the building for all violations after the court proceedings for eviction pursued by the COG's landlord, Project Renaissance, March 8, wrote that he could certify the building for occupancy without the installation of a fire detection system if the young children now in the colony were moved out.

The Rev. David Cook, COG advisor, said at the time of the court appearance that moving the children out would not be a problem; they would send them to one of the 23 other COG centers if that was what was required to stay in Ulster Heights.

The fire detection system would cost several thousand dollars, and Cook said that was more than the COG could afford. He said three babies had been born at the expense of the Ulster Heights colony this year, and that had eaten into the budget.

A COG spokesman, who identified himself as "Barnabas", said, "It looks like we are going to stay," when spoken to by telephone Wednesday. Barnabas was under the impression that the fire escape did not have to be put up either. However, Mekulik's letter says it does.

Town Justice Maurice Rosenstock said the COG would be back before him Wednesday, April 12. He said the issue would be simple. If Mekulik said the building could be certified for occupancy, they can stay. If the COG fail to make the repairs and renovations required by Mekulik's reading of the multiple residency laws, the judge said they would have to go.

Conservatives To List Slate

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Five out of six candidates for county and state offices will be nominated by the Ulster County Conservative Party tonight at its convention in the Port Ewen Town Hall at 8 p.m. The party will also name delegates to the three upcoming congressional conventions.

In what is expected to be a somewhat cut and dried meeting, Ulster County Republican - Conservative Assemblyman H. Clark Bell is expected to receive the nomination for a third term as is Republican-Conservative Emeel Betros of Dutchess County.

Nominations for State Senate in Ulster County's northern and southern senatorial districts are expected to go to Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason of Hobart and State Sen. Richard Schermerhorn of Cornwall, respectively.

The Conservatives have also indicated they will nominate someone for one of two county offices, William S. Keyser, incumbent Republican - Conservative coroner, and are apparently declining to nominate Republican County Clerk Albert Spada while looking for a candidate to name in his stead.

The party will name delegates to congressional conventions rather than endorse anyone at this time. However, the Conservatives are reportedly interested in naming someone other than the incumbent Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., of Dutchess County and Republican Congressman Howard Robison of Tioga County, feeling that their voting records are too liberal.

The Ulster County Conservatives have also indicated that they will probably throw their support to one of three Republican candidates who may face each other in a primary for the Congressional nomination in Ulster's southern congressional district. He is Yale Rapkin, a New City attorney who faces Assemblyman Benjamin Gilman and Clarkson Supervisor William E. Vines.

The key to that selection lies not only in the fact that Rapkin has a conservative bent but because Orange County GOP Chairman William Doulin has come out against cross endorsements and reportedly the Republican Gilman is going along with that wish and rejecting the Conservative's backing. Vines reportedly poses no serious threat in the three-way contest.

State Sen. Richard Schermerhorn, also of Orange County, has already agreed to accept the Ulster Conservative endorsement despite Doulin's wishs.

We would like to thank

First Woman Named To Human Rights Post

FLORENCE V. LUCAS

Jack Sable, Commissioner of Human Rights for the State of New York, this week in a surprise move made an unprecedented appointment when he appointed Florence V. Lucas to the post of Deputy Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights, effective April 1, 1972.

She is the first woman to be named to the post.

Sable stated that during the past year, statistics clearly indicate the Division's success-progress in overall service to the public, new innovative approaches with large industries that have culminated in the signing of consensus statement for job opportunity on all levels, with strong emphasis on middle-management through executive for Blacks, Puerto Ricans and women, supercedes all efforts of the Division during its 26-year existence.

Sable further stated these accomplishments were made possible through the implementation of today's technology, coupled with ability, dedication and sensitivity for the rights of all people.

"My appointments will be based on ability, innovativeness and productivity, nothing less will be acceptable," he said. "The public demands to have and is entitled to capable public servants who can be depended on to work in their interest."

Commissioner Lucas — in private life Mrs. David Rex Edwards — is a native of New York City who had established several "firsts" for Black women prior to her being appointed to her new post, including being the first Black woman admitted to the New York Bar from Queens County. She holds a J. D. degree from Brooklyn Law School.

She joined the human rights agency in 1966 as Special Assistant to the Chairman.

Two years later, when the Division of Human Rights was established under a reorganization, she became an Assistant Commissioner. In 1971, when Governor Rockefeller appointed Jack Sable as Commissioner, Sable reaffirmed her appointment and designated her as his Special Counsel, functioning in Legal Services.

Prior to joining the Division of Human Rights, Commissioner Lucas was with the Federal Office of Price Administration and engaged in a private law practice.

Widely active in a multitude of philanthropic, social and volunteer activities, Commissioner Lucas is a past president of the Jamaica Branch of the NAACP and served as the National First Vice President of the Association of Negro Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

She is secretary of the Board of Directors of the Queens Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and serves on the Queens Advisory Council of the Salvation Army. Also active with the Queensboro Council of Social Welfare and the National Council of Negro Women. She is listed in Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who in the East.

Her varied activities have won for her numerous awards and citations from religious and educational organizations.

Commissioner Sable stated: "I selected Florence Lucas for the post of Deputy Commissioner because her outstanding ability and dedication, and my personal faith in her based upon a year's day-to-day work association. I am confident that with Commissioner Lucas as Deputy, the Division will move forward at an even greater accelerated pace toward our goals."

PAW Travels To Montclair With 'Pickpocket'

Performing Arts of Woodstock was invited to represent community theatre at the first regional conference of the University and College Association, a division of the American Theatre Association, at Montclair State College in New Jersey, last Saturday, March 18.

PAW sent its award-winning, original, two-character play, PICKPOCKET, by Ron Radice, to the conference. The play, and actors Ed Kramer and John LeFever, were enthusiastically received. A stimulating discussion, by a distinguished panel of directors and administrators of college and community theatre, followed the performance.

The Massed Choir of the Kingston Area Council of Churches sang before a capacity audience Sunday evening, March 19 at the special Union Lenten services held at the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: That letter in your column about the woman who had a sign in her living room says, 'Thanks for Not Smoking," might have surprised some folks, but not me. I believe in putting up signs.

In fact, I have a big poster wth red letters on my front door which says:

'For all who wish to pass thru this door:

1. No smoking inside. It makes me sick.
2. If you bring your kids, either take care of them yourself or leave them outside.
3. I am not a bank, so don't ask to borrow any money.
4. I am not a grocer, so don't ask to borrow any groceries.
5. I am not in the hotel business, so don't ask me to put you up over night.
6. Don't bring me your problems. I've got my own.

(signed) THE ESTABLISHMENT

Abby, I am 28 and have a husband and four kids and they come first. Since I have had this poster on my front door, lots of folks have said I was nuts, but I don't care. This is the first time in my life I have had any privacy. Sign me "That nutty lady with the sign on her door" . . .or

SHIRLEY IN HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

DEAR SHIRLEY: I'll wager that your poster nets you more privacy than a 200-pound dog. (And you don't have to feed the poster!)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited another couple over for Sunday dinner. (Chicken and homemade noodles.) We told them we'd eat between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., but to come early. They said they would.

At 1:15 p.m. they telephoned to say they had started to watch the ball game on TV, and they'd come when it was over. We knew this would take several hours so we helped ourselves to the chicken and noodles and went to the corner tavern and drank beer.

Three hours later our friends came into the tavern looking for us. They said, "How about dinner?"

What would you have done?

THE TWO OF US

DEAR TWO: I'd have told them that "dinner" was between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., but if they wanted some leftover chicken and soggy noodles, they were welcome to it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Stalemate," the intelligent young couple who wanted help in deciding who would raise their three young children if they were both to die together:

As a professional who deals with this situation every day I have seen the heartbreak and confusion suffered because people have not been realistic about this possible eventuality.

By all means, keep the children together. And provide as much financial aid as you can for the family you select in order to enable them to take on the added burden of raising your children.

Have a nonfamily member of the trust department of a bank act as an administrator. The small cost is a bargain in preventing family conflict.

Most of all, keep abreast of the times. The family you chose 10 years ago may not be the best for your children today. I know. We have three adventurous mountain-bred teen-agers who would find the overprotectiveness of my favorite sister entirely too confining.

I realize that the chances of both parents dying together are very slim. But it happens every day.

EXPERIENCED

DEAR EXPERIENCED: Yours is a thought-provoking letter. Thanks for writing.

Lefooters Name Guest

The Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club will feature guest caller Yodelin' George Haile from Holyoke, Mass., at their Friday night dance, March 24. The dance starts at 8:30 at the Hurley Reformed Church Hall off Route 209 and all club level dancers are invited.

George Haile is a self-taught square dance caller. While stationed on Guam with the U.S. Air Force, the regular caller was transferred and, to fill a need, George learned to call on his own. He has called in Japan, much of the southern United States as well as in New York and all over New England. He has performed at the last three New England Square Dance Conventions and is currently serving as Secretary of the Springfield Area Callers Association. George is club caller for two college clubs, one at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst and the other at Westfield State College. He is also resident caller during the summer at High View Campground in West Brookfield, Mass.

Haile and his wife, Nancy, met while George was stationed in Alabama. They were married in their square dance clothes and the reception was, naturally, a square dance. George earned a BA degree from the University of Massachusetts and is currently finishing up work at that school for his Master's degree in Education Administration. He is now working as an Education Specialist with an OEO organization in Holyoke.

George and Nancy are both active in their church, serving as members of the Christian Education Committee, teaching Sunday School and advising the church's youth group.

Haile recently called for the Lefooters at their New Year's Eve dance and the club is looking forward to welcoming "Yodelin' George" back to the Hudson Valley.

Entertains Students

On Wednesday, March 22, the schoolchidren of George Washington School were given a special treat. Walter B. Gibson of Eddyville, a professional magician and renowned author, gave two performances at the school.

Walter Gibson became interested in mystery stories after reading The Return of Sherlock Holmes. His other early interest was magic. A temporary job on the Philadelphia Public Ledger led to writing feature articles on the subject which attracted the attention of Thurston and Houdini, two leading magicians of the day. Mr. Gibson was engaged to write books and articles on magic under their respective names. Mr. Gibson met Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, author of the Sherlock Holmes mysteries, and he and other mystery writers encouraged him to write mysteries himself. In 1931 Mr. Gibson wrote the first adventure of The Shadow. Over 15 years, Mr. Gibson wrote 283 Shadow stories under the pen name of Maxwell Grant. The Shadow radio program which began in 1936 with Orson Wells in the title role was based on the original Shadow novels. Mr. Gibson has written more than 30 books on magic under his own name and has written extensively about games, puzzles and pysychic subjects, as well as about crime cases. Among his many books are Hondini's Escapes. The Complete Illustrated Book of Card Magic and The Master Magicians: Their Lives and Most Famous Tricks.

Ming Wig Is Here

Among the wave of China-influenced fashions is a new hair style from fashion designer Oscar de la Renta. It's his "Ming" wig, and it steers clear of "Dragon Lady" elaborate styles sometimes associated with Oriental hairdos. Instead it's modeled after a Chinese schoolgirl's look, a swirling pageboy, barely waved and curving from the nape of the neck in back up to the cheekbones in front.

Clubowners Won't Yield

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Major League clubowners, a little surprised at their own solidarity, have commissioned their spokesman to advise the players "to take a walk" March 31 if they want to strike over the issue of increased pension benefits.

John Gaherin, chairman of the Players Relations Committee for the owners, said after a clubowners' meeting Wednesday, that he will advise Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, that the owners have not changed their position under the pressure of the overwhelming strike vote taken by the players.

"I will advise Miller that the owners have not changed their position one iota," said Gaherin. "We are telling the players 'what you had in 1971 you will have in 1972-73.'

Gaherin said that National League President Charles Feeney and American League President Joe Cronin will acompany him to a meeting Friday at which the clubowners' position will be formally presented to Miller and the representatives of the Players Association.

"I'll walk in and present our offer, which is very generous and equitable," he said. "If Miller has anything else to say, I'll listen. That's our offer on the table."

American League owners, meeting at a separate conference here, approved the sale of the Cleveland Indians to a syndicate of native Clevelanders headed by sportsman Nick Mileti. Mileti declined to reveal the price he would pay for control of the Indians but it was estimated at between $11-million and $14-million.

"I'm going to control it and run it," said Mileti when asked who was going to operate the syndicate. "The fans of Northeast Ohio are the greatest and we're going to become No. 1 for them."

Mileti is purchasing the control of the club from Vernon Stouffer, who bought into the Indians a few years ago.

Yanks Help Crippled Bullpen

By United Press International

The Boston Red Sox Wednesday obtained first-baseman outfielder Danny Cater while the New York Yankees acquired relief pitcher Sparky Lyle in a "little" deal which apparently shored up weaknesses of both teams.

The acquisition of Cater, a veteran of eight years in the majors with a .276 batting average, will enable Manager Eddie Kasko to align both his infield and outfield.

The Yankees, who were crippled by poor pitching out of the bullpen in 1971, obtained a 27-year-old pitcher who was 6-4 with a 2.77 earned run average in 50 relief appearances last season.

In other camps: Jim McAndrew pitched four-hit shutout ball for six innings as the New York Mets beat the Yankees, 3-0, with the help of a two-run single by Bud Harrelson ... Two homers by Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Lolich's one-hit pitching for five innings paced the Detroit Tigers to a 7-0 victory over the Mets' "B" team.

Jim Hunter and John Odom combined in a seven-hitter that gave the Oakland Athletics a 6-0 triumph over the California Angels ... Homers by Frank Robinson and Bill Grabarkewitz led the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds ... Lou Piniella's seventh-inning double drove in the winning run in the Kansas City Royals' 4-3 decision over the Texas Rangers.

Run-scoring singles by Ron Stone and Don Money and Tom Hutton's sacrifice fly enabled the Philadelphia Phillies to score three runs in the seventh inning and beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-7 ... Pitcher Mike McQueens walked in two runs in a three-run eighth inning which lifted the Montreal Expos to a 7-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves ... Walt Williams and Jorge Orta hit two-run homers to power the Chicago Whie Sox to a 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins. The White Sox scored all seven runs off Jim Kaat, who hadn't allowed a run previously this spring ... Two homers by Boog Powell and one by Don Buford paced the Baltimore Orioles to a 10-5 decision over the World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cleveland Indians shaded the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, on Mike Hershberger's single and Del Unser's triple in the ninth inning. Buddy Bell, son of former major leaguer Gus Bell, continued his fine spring showing with a three-run homer for the Indians ... Rookie catcher Darrell Porter's three-run, seventh-inning homer was the big blow as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Francisco Giants, 7-3. Dave Kingman hit a 475-foot homer for the Giants.

Wooden vs. Crum

A Classic Confrontation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pupils challenge teachers everyday yet tonight comes a classic in confrontations as John Wooden, and his defending basketball champion UCLA Bruins, face Denny Crum and the Louisville Cardinals in an NCAA semi-final game at Los Angeles.

North Carolina and Florida State meet in the other game slated to start at 9:10 p.m. EST (NBC).

Meanwhile in the National Invitation Tournament semi-finals at Madison Square Garden it will be St. John's vs. Niagara and Jacksonville vs. Maryland.

Teacher Wooden must be favored as the undefeated Bruins continue their bid for a sixth straight national collegiate crown and their eighth in nine years.

Wooden and his crew face a club coached by a 34-year old who played at UCLA and assisted the head man for three years when the Bruins won the NCAA crown each season.

The North Carolina-Florida State meeting takes second billing to UCLA-Louisville, however the winner will be in Saturday's final. Florida State boasts height with soph Lawrence McCray at 6-11 and Reggie Royals just an inch shorter. Carolina's Bob McAdoo at 6-9 holds the post for the smaller Tar Heels, however the club has experience.

The last time St. John's met Niagara, the Redmen rallied from a 16-point deficit for a 93-90 victory, but that was when they had a healthy Mel Davis.

Tonight Davis lies in a hospital room depriving his teammates of their top scorer and rebounder. Davis suffered a torn tendon in the quarter finals Tuesday.

The opener of the twin-bill will feature big men — Jacksonville's 7-0 center Dave Brent and Maryland's 6-9 Len Elmore and 6-11 Tom McMillen.

NBA Playoffs Set

By United Press International

The lineups are complete for the 1972 National Basketball Association playoffs. New York faces Baltimore and Boston plays Atlanta in the Eastern Division while Los Angeles takes on Chicago and defending champion Milwaukee meets Golden State in the West.

Golden State was the 1st team to clinch a playoff berth, scoring a 121-101 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night to sew up second place in the Pacific Division.

Los Angeles, favored to dethrone Milwaukee, fell flat on the court as the Lakers dropped a 124-120 decision to the Cleveland Cavaliers. Los Angeles now must win its remaining two games to set an NBA victory record of 68.

In other league action, Boston downed Philadelphia, 113-106, New York clobbered Buffalo, 123-99, Atlanta edged Houston, 107-106, and Cincinnati topped Detroit, 135-130.

Cleveland scored the most stunning triumph of its brief career in the NBA as the Cavs overcame a pair of 31-point performances by Los Angeles' brilliant backcourt duo of Jerry West and Gail Goodrich. Rick Roberson hit a career high 29 points in leading the Cavalier charge.

Cazzie Russell, prepping for the playoff battle against the Bucks, scored 33 points in Golden State's clinching. He hit 14 of 29 shots.

John Havlicek and Hank Finkel each sank six points to break away from an 86-all tie with Philadelphia. Havlicek finished with a team high of 21 points, Billy Cunningham had the game high of 26 points.

Bill Bradley ripped Buffalo's defense for 33 points on 13 field goals and 7-for-7 free throw accuracy. The Knicks continued their bad habit, however, of squandering big leads. They were ahead by 22 points in the second period and only by eight in the third before rallying again. Randy Smith led the Braves with 19 points.

Atlanta rallied from a half-time deficit for the third straight game in beating Houston. Herm Gilliam came off the bench to score 20 points for the Hawks, who were led by Lou Hudson's 27 points. Stu Lantz led Houston with 29 points.

Nate Archibald scored 46 points and amassed 12 assists in Cincinnati's win over Detroit. The total marked Archibald's 12th straight 30-plus game and made his the third player in Royal history to score over 2,000 in a season. Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman were the others. Bob Lanier was high for Detroit with 31 points.

NHL Cracks Down

By United Press International

Warning that "There will be no relaxation in the league's policy to stamp out stick swinging and spearing," National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell has handed down three-game suspensions to Wayne Cashman of the Boston Bruins and Dennis Hextall of the Minnesota North Stars.

The two players engaged in a stick swinging brawl during last Sunday's nationally televised game at Boston, won by the Bruins, 7-3, causing Campbell to hold an investigation. In addition to the suspensions, Cashman was fined $200 for swinging his stick at another player while Hextall was fined $100.

In on the ice action Wednesday, Marcell Dione scored two goals and added two assists to carry the Red Wings to a key 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Kings. As a result, the Wings are only one point behind fourth place Toronto in the East Division. The Leafs, who still have a game in hand, tied with Montreal, 3-3.

St. Louis picked up important ground in the West by beating California, 4-1, and Pittsburgh was knocked off by Buffalo, 4-3.

HUNTER'S BIG THREE: Three Hunter Mountain aces of the Professional Ski Racers Association who rate 2-3-4 in current money earnings on the tour (L-R) Kurt Recher (4th), Harold Steuffer (3rd) and Hugo Nindle (2nd). The tour ends this weekend at Vail, Colorado.

Hunter Trio High In Ski Ratings

HUNTER — Spider Sabich, the 27-year-old Kyburz, Calif. racer is the leading money winner with total earnings of $39,400 for the 1971-72 season in the Professional Ski Racers Association circuit. He also leads in points with 317.

Sabich has won nine of 16 events to date on the tour, including the slalom and giant slalom events worth $5,500 last weekend in the Bonne Bell-Hart Pro Ski Race last weekend at Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

Three Hunter Mountain representatives hold down the next three places in the money standings. Hugo Nindl has 167 points and $17,000 for second place, followed by Harold Steuffer, 158 points and $14,100 and Kurt Recher, 77 points and $5,275.

As a team, the Hunter Mountain squad is the most dominated in the racing circuit which is earning greater stature every year. All three have been consistently in the top five throughout the season.

Steuffer finished second in the slalom and second overall in the Steamboat Springs stop. A third place finish earned Kurt Recher $1,200 in the same meet.

The tour now moves to Vail, Colorado for the final stop on the 1971-72 tour — the $30,000 Lange Cup, March 31-April 2.

Meanwhile, as of Thursday, Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl will have had a total of 120 consecutive skiing days. And the best news of all is that the snow bases remain deep and firm.

According to area General Manager Orville Slutsky, the spring skiing available now at Hunter Mountain, with the warming days, is about the best there is. No firm closing date has been set and it won't be.

"As in all previous seasons," said Slutsky, "Hunter will remain open as long as there is skier interest."

The first annual John Clair Memorial Race will be run at Hunter Saturday, April 1, honoring this great gentleman whose untimely death last year in an auto accident was a great loss to the ski community.

Clair, who has been memorialized with a monument and trail named for him on Hunter West, was one of the unpaid, untiring workers in the ski field.

Six YMCA Swimmers Mid-State Champions

POUGHKEEPSIE — Six Kingston YMCA boys won first places in the 4th Annual Boys Championship Meet of the Mid-State Swim League at the YMCA pool here. Boys from 12 Hudson Valley teams competed for individual trophies which were awarded to winners of first through sixth places

Kingston's strong relay teams also won first place in all four age group freestyle relays with outstanding times.

Mount Vernon Repeat No. 1

SYRACUSE — Mount Vernon High School has been crowned top large school basketball team in New York State for the second consecutive season.

The Generals completed the year with a 17-3 record. Two of those defeats came in the exclusive Knights of Columbus Tournament in Washington, D.C., but one was to eventual tourney champ St. Anthony's of Washington by a 75-73 count and the other was to New York City Catholic School power Holy Cross, 67-63.

Mount Vernon was 16-1 in the regular campaign and won the Section One title.

Elmsford Alexander Hamilton took the No. 1 spot among small schools with a 19-1 record, that loss coming at the hands of Mount Vernon.

No teams from Ulster County rated mention and the two Section Nine champs, Clarkson North and Cornwall, were seventh (large) and third (small) respectively although both were undefeated and had better win-loss marks than the teams above them.

Smith-White Five Romps

POUGHKEEPSIE — The DeMicco Motors Five of Kingston, by way of Spring Valley, came to Poughkeepsie Wednesday night, did a quick change of uniforms and promptly established itself as top heavy favorite to win the 29th Annual Poughkeepsie YMCA-Hudson Valley Basketball Tournament title.

A DeMicco triumph in the Kingston Basketball Tournament is generally predicated, but the manner in which the team, playing as Smith-White Realty of Spring Valley polished off DeFranco Dodge in a first round Hudson Valley test last night left little doubt their ability to also win it all here.

"Nobody is going to beat this team," said John Flanagan, Poughkeepsie Journal sports editor after watching S-W crush DeFranco's 104-56. "Sicklers of Kingston has a strong squad but from what I've seen I don't think they can handle Smith-White if they get into the finals."

Led by Mel Knight's 21 points, Smith-White exploded for a 64-point second half against DeFranco's. George Dalzell, who set the KBT tournament with 54 points last Saturday night, played about half the game and contributed 19 points, as did Denny Jackson.

DeFranco's captain, Benny Lobe, a former trick dribbler with the Harlem Wizards, took game honors with 26 points.

The Nite Caps, an all-Newburgh array, had its hands full with the Poughkeepsie Dutchmen, but an inexplicable second half collapse by the Dutchmen gave the Caps a decisive 87-70 victory.

Both teams were stone cold in a 36-36 first half standoff, but the Dutchmen committed seven turnovers in the first three minutes of the second half, three within 15 seconds and Nite Caps ran off eight straight points. They led the rest of the way, outscoring Dutchmen 51-34 after the recess. The losers were charged with 42 turnovers. Jim McLarion led the Caps with 19 and Gay Powell had 18. Ray Brown paced Dutchmen with 15.

In semi-final action next Monday, Hyde Park meets Sickler's at 7:15 p.m., followed by Nite Caps and Smith-White at 8:15.

Frazier Meets Who Next?

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Joe Frazier will make his next defense of the world heavyweight title against Ron Stander, a 28-year old Pier 6 brawler on May 25 in Omaha.

United Press International has learned from sources close to the promoters that the 15-round title fight will take place under the auspices of the Cornhusker Boxing Club in the Cornhusker Arena. It will be carried on home television by TNS Television Network of New York with Frazier getting 40 per cent of the live gate and a guarantee of $150,000 from television.

The official announcement of the bout is expected to come from the Cornhusker Boxing Club today or Friday.

"I haven't seen the contract," said Frazier when contacted in Philadelphia. "But as far as I know the fight is on."

Frazier is believed to have agreed to the fight with the 28-year old Stander to see whether his skills have been resharpened enough to seriously negotiate a second "Fight of the Century" bout with Muhammad Ali.

Frazier knocked out inexperienced Terry Daniels in four rounds in his last bout, Jan. 15, but showed signs of ring rust following his long layoff after his "title showdown" bout with Ali.

Stander, who stands 5 feet, 11 inches and has been fighting at weights varying from 218 to 230 pounds since he turned pro in 1969, is a native of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and has a 20-0-1 record. He is built like a cement block and is a plodding two-fisted puncher who has scored 12 knockouts among his 20 victories.

Stander's most impressive wins have been over Thad Spencer, Manuel Ramos (with whom he previously fought to a draw), Jack O'Hallaron and Ernie Shaver. Stander knocked out Shaver in the fifth-round of a bloody bout in which the hard-hitting Shaver scored hard rights and lefts to Stander's jaw in the first two rounds.

Stander, who has fought most of his bouts in Omaha, is the father of two children and a former all-around athlete in high school and college.

The bout will be the first title fight ever held in the state of Nebraska.

Hurley Hockey League

HURLEY — The Hurley Recreation Association has announced plans for the formation of a hockey program next winter.

All boys in the Town of Hurley between the ages of six and sixteen will be eligible to participate in the program which will consist of the teaching of fundamentals and playing of scrimmages. Development of a league would depend on response to the initial efforts.

An artifical rink with side boards is in the works according to program director Jack Jordan.

Preliminary registration is set for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Hurley Fire House. All boys must be accompanied by a parent in order to register. A brief explanation of the program will be given to parents at that time.

At present, plans call for the boys to be distributed according to age and weight. Two adults will handle each group.

A committee will be formed from residents of the Town of Hurley to work with the Board of Directors of the Hurley Rec.

Correct Jury

A story in Wednesday's Freeman was inaccurate in stating that a supreme court "grand jury" had returned a verdict of $75,000 as a result of an auto accident in June of 1966. The verdict was returned by a supreme court jury, not a grand jury, which does no issue verdicts, only indictments. The case involved Joseph and Rose DiDonna and the late George Merwin versus Joel Halwick. Joel Halwich was awarded $70,000 by the Supreme Court jury and his mother was awarded $5,000.

Assemblyman Bell to Speak At Annual YMCA Dinner

KINGSTON — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, scheduled for April 6 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Thursday night dinner meeting will be one of the many highlights of the week's activities, when the YMCA conducts its formal grand opening ceremonies for the new $1.2 million addition on Broadway.

April 2-8 is "Dedication Week" at the YMCA. Formal dedication ceremonies will take place on Saturday, April 8.

According to Jack L. Roosa, president of the Board of Directors of the YMCA, the theme of the annual dinner meeting will be "Building for Tomorrow — Today." Roosa said the theme "captures the effort and enthusiasm that has gone into the growth and development of our Association in recent years."

Bell termed the new "Y" building "a landmark for our county, which is only the first step toward providing a facility that will accommodate our needs for many, many years to come."

In addition to Bell's keynote address at the annual dinner, a color film strip of many of the activities at the YMCA will be shown. The "Leader of the Year" and "Youth of the Year" will also be selected.

The dinner which begins at 6:45 p.m., is open to residents of Ulster County. Ticket reservations can be made by contacting the YMCA office.

The YMCA is a member agency of the United Way of Ulster County.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

On March 15, 1972, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York amendments to electric rate schedule P.S.C. No. 14—Electricity to become effective April 15, 1972. Said amendments provide that line extensions necessary to furnish electric service within new subdivisions of four or more permanent residential dwelling units will be made underground in accordance with the following rules if:

(1) the application therefor is received or the approval of governmental authorities having jurisdiction is given after April 15, 1972 or
(2) if construction thereof is commenced underground after January 26, 1972 and is not subject to prior arrangements between applicant and company.

The applicant for construction of such lines shall, prior to construction by the company,

(1) submit an application in the required form;
(2) provide the company with a survey map approved by all governmental authorities having jurisdiction, certified to by a licensed professional engineer or land surveyor and certified to as final by the applicant showing the location of each lot, sidewalk and roadway;
(3) provide the company with a map showing the location of all other existing and proposed underground facilities;
(4) provide to the company satisfactory permanent easements or rights of way;
(5) clear easements and rights of way of stumps, brush and other obstructions; grade easements and rights of way to within six inches of final grade and maintain such clearance and grade during construction by the company;
(6) install all other proposed underground facilities including water mains, sewer lines, drainage facilities and curbs; and
(7) make such contribution and/or deposit as may be required below.

The company shall notify the appropriate telephone company upon receipt of an application for underground electric service to a subdivision and, upon compliance by the applicant with the aforesaid requirements, shall install underground electric lines, the design of which shall be at the sole discretion of the company, and shall thereafter operate and maintain such lines.

The applicant shall contribute to the company $6.50 per foot of trench required for underground lines within the subdivision. Said contribution shall be reduced by $390.00 for each dwelling unit ready for service at the time the underground lines are installed and shall thereafter be subject to refunds of $390.00 for each additional dwelling unit served from those lines, said refunds to be made quarterly and continue until the entire contribution is refunded, or until the subdivision is completed or until five years has elapsed from the date service was first available.

To guarantee performance, the company may require a deposit from the applicant in an amount no greater than the excess of the cost of underground lines over the cost of overhead lines. Such deposits shall be refunded with interest on a pro rata basis as dwelling units are attached until a period of five years has elapsed at which time refunds shall cease.

If the applicant requires three phase service for facilities in the subdivision, he shall contribute to the company $2.00 per trench foot of three phase lines required.

New facilities necessary to connect existing lines to the underground lines within a subdivision shall be placed underground at the rate of 25 feet per dwelling unit in the subdivision, but not less than 200 feet, if required, nor more than 500 feet without a contribution by the applicant. The company may elect to place additional facilities underground at its expense and the Commission reserves the right to require underground installation of particular lines.

Where electric lines are installed underground the portion of the underground service lateral within the property line shall be installed at the applicant's or customer's expense in accordance with the company's specifications by an electrical contractor or other qualified person and shall be owned and maintained by the applicant or customer. The point of connection of the service lateral to the company's lines and to the applicant's or customer's building shall be determined in all cases by the company.

Your Horoscope

Friday, March 24

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now find you have the warmth, magnetism and awareness of what others have in mind. You can get them to go along with your plans if you are not so engrossed in gaining your ambitions and wishes that you take from them but do not give in return. Fine for social events, public works.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do something constructive about those creative ideas you have and get in good with those at the head of large corporations. Come to a better understanding with loved one. Go along more with his or her ideas.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Instead of being so reticent, be more willing to cooperate with those who live at your home and all is better in the future. You can develop that project amazingly well if you use only practical and sane methods. Think.

GEMINI (May 21 to Juen 21) You love to gad about making new contacts that are worthwhile, bringing home the proverbial bacon, and this is a fine day for such. Know what is expected of you by allies. Don't disappoint them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy with the monetary problems you have early and make big headway for the future, so that the weekend will be free of worry. Contact an adviser if you are confused just how to go ahead. Then carry through like a machine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You look and feel so attractive today that others will be in the mood to grant you almost any favor you ask. Plan just how to have more savoir faire in the future. Improve your health.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan those new arrangements of a private nature carefully and don't confide in others, or they will go awry. Your intuitive faculties are working fine. Follow them and get good results, whether in business or personal life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pick the right companions to accompany you at some social event that you feel will bring you pleasure or prestige, or both. Do that shopping early that is necessary. Do not splurge because you want to show off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put that plan to work that will open doors of opportunity for you by seeing the right bigwigs who have the right keys. You have fine talents and can make the most of them now. Improve image at public work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have the opportunity to get into new outlets, meet interesting people, study new recreational activities now. Get the information you need. This can bring about a whole new uptrend in your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sit down with advisors and plan a far better existence along the right channels and ethical standards. Confide in your mate, who can be most helpful also. Stop being so opinionated and add to present security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go along with what conservatives in high position have to suggest instead of giving vent to your emotions and getting into trouble. One who has opposed you can now be a valuable associate if handled properly. Take it easy in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you have much work to do, plan some time for improving your home surroundings as well. Add the new articles that are colorful and charming. Add new trimmings to wardrobe so it looks more modern, sharp.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those charming young people with a desire for heroism who can become a true hero, heroine because of the inherited pattern within the subconscious, provided the parents give the right impetus and encouragement at the right times to bring this about. Otherwise your child will lose heart and become a sorry figure. Send to college if possible.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HUNGRY: (Q.) My mother hardly ever fixes a good dinner any more. Cigarettes and coffee are all she is interested in.

For my sister and two brothers and me she fixes bacon and tomato sandwiches. That's all. Or fried luncheon meat with cheese. Sometimes she fixes bacon and eggs for dinner. Or pancakes. That's all.

Maybe once a week, or twice, she has regular meat and vegetables for dinner. The house is a mess too.

I am 16 and have a boy friend and I'm thinking about leaving if she doesn't quit starving me.—Nothing To Come Home To in Florida.

(A.) Is your mother working? Is she divorced, or a widow? Is money a problem?

If she is working and trying to make ends meet and take care of four children, she needs help—your help.

You are 16 and mature enough to plan and prepare meals, and also to shop with economy and a balanced diet in mind. You can also help keep the house clean. Your sister and brothers are also probably old enough to help in some way.

Helping is one of the finest and most rewarding things anyone can do. Offer to help your mother. Ask her to let you help her.

BUMPS: (Q.) I have these red bumps all over my legs. In gym people say, "What's wrong with your legs?"

I just say, "I don't know." But I get so embarrassed. What causes these bumps? What will cure them?—Broken Out in Kansas.

(A.) Your trouble could be anything from stocking dye to shaving irritation to food allergy to incorrect diet. Or something else entirely. Go to a dermatologist and let him diagnose and treat your rash.

'Harvey' . . . Delightful Show

NEW YORK (AP) — "Harvey," still a convivial 6-foot-4½ white rabbit after 28 years, came to television Wednesday night as an NBC "Hall of Fame" Easter treat.

Mary Chase's play, which won a Pulitizer Prize as a Broadway production, was adapted, intact in spirit, to the special demands of broadcasting. James Stewart and Helen Hayes returned to the parts they played in a stage revival a couple of years ago.

It is a gentle comedy involving a couple of delightfully vague and daft characters. Stewart's Elwood P. Dowd is a kind, genial man who enjoys, perhaps a bit too much, the friendship of other drinkers at his favorite bars. Bu' his best friend is Harvey, the rabbit who is invisible to most people.

Miss Hayes, as Elwood's sister, Veta Louise, was distraught from outset to finish. First it was Elwood and his peculiar behavior that upset her—partly because she, too, occasionally glimpsed Harvey out of the corner of her eye.

It was decided that Elwood needed psychiatric treatment for his hallucination. The result was a series of misunderstandings during which the presumably sane people—the psychiatrists, the lawyer and Veta Louise's spinster daughter—became fierce and frantic.

Offered a chance to receive treatment that would turn him into "a perfectly normal human being" and make Harvey disappear forever, Elwood and his sister agreed they preferred to remain the way they were.

Th play was acted by a fine cast. Elwood is a character tailored for Stewart's hesitant acting style. Miss Hayes has no peer at playing flighty fussbudgets. John McGiver may have leaned a bit heavily into his role as a psychiatrist—but Miss Chase was having fun with the branch of medicine. Maria Hailey was excellent as the drab daughter. Arlene Francis appeared in a minor role as the doctor's wife and Martin Gabel was the family lawyer.

If "Harvey" shows its age a bit, it is in its sweetness of spirit and innocence—no fights and no swear words.

It was a delightful 90 minutes.

The three major networks, already weeks late in announcing their fall schedules, are expected to postpone their announcements until the conclusion of the current Senate subcommittee hearings on television violence, expected at the end of this week.

It is believed on Madison Avenue that some established and new action series might be moved at the last minute from early evening positions, when many children are in the audience, to later time periods.

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "The Mad Hatter is rather mad. Will he be mad enough to stand by three no-trump if I double it? Anyway, things have been going so well at this tea party bridge game I might as well try for the works."

The dormouse, sitting North, looked mildly awake for a second, but settled back. He wasn't going to rescue the Hatter. The March Hare had no reason to disturb the double and as for the Hatter his only problem was whether or not to redouble.

Alice played her ace of diamonds. When dummy showed up with two cards in the suit Alice had no worries.

She ran off her eight tricks, stopping only to wait for the March Hare and the Hatter to find discards.

The March Hare had no problems. His first discard was the eight of spades. Then he shed all his clubs and hearts and then a second spade.

The Hatter's first four discards were painful but forced. He had to throw two high hearts and two high clubs. His fifth discard was even more painful because he had been caught in a progressive squeeze. He did throw the ace of hearts whereupon Alice cashed her jack and squeezed the Hatter once more. He wound up taking no tricks at all.

U.S. Tells North Viets . . . Be Serious or No More Talks

PARIS (UPI)—The United States told the Vietnamese Communists today it will not return to the negotiating table unless they show willingness in advance to engage in "meaningful" talks on war and peace issues.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told North Vietnam and the Viet Cong he will boycott next week's meeting and agree to meet them only when they indicate through various channels, including liaison officers, their readiness to hold "serious discussions."

The American move, promptly backed by the South Vietnamese delegation, appeared to be a threat to suspend indefinitely the deadlocked three-yar-old Vietnam peace conference.

The talks have fallen into a familiar pattern—U.S. demands that the North Vietnamese discuss the freeing of American prisoners of war and Communist counter-charges that the United States is escalating the air war while talking peace in Paris.

No progress has been reported in nearly three years of negotiation since the original agreement on the shape of the conference table, and both sides have boycotted the talks for various reasons. The last American boycott was to protest a Communist walkout.

Today's session started off in familiar pattern. Porter once again called for North Vietnam to permit impartial inspection of the POW camps and the Communists refused on grounds the request was merely a maneuver in President Nixon's bid for re-election.

"President Nixon is raising the so-called prisoner of war issue while day and night U.S. bombers are raining thousands of tons of bombs on the Vietnamese population, including old men, women and children," said deputy Viet Cong negotiator Dinh Ba Thi in a prepared speech.

The United States, which has stressed the release of American POWs in an attempt to negotiate the end of the Vietnam War, proposed at last Thursday's session that both sides pledge not to reveal information about the location of the camps if inspections are allowed.

The proposal, submitted by chief U.S. negotiator William J. Porter, was made in an attempt to ease Communist fears that U.S. forces would try to invade the camps and free the prisoners.

"How can President Nixon claim to feel concerned with the fate of the prisoners of war when it is his policy of indiscriminate bombing that is lengthening indefinitely the list of the prisoners," Thi said.

He said the proposal was aimed at "fooling the public, covering up the President's bellicose policies and meeting his desire to remain in the White House.

Rocket, Mortar Attacks by Red Gunners

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners launched 13 separate rocket and mortar attacks in South Vietnam Wednesday night and today, including a barrage which set fire to 1.5 million gallons of jet fuel — enough to fly almost 7,000 helicopter missions.

In Cambodia, guerrilla frogmen sank a petroleum tanker and damaged a freighter at the Phnom Penh docks, closed two crucial highways to civilian traffic and forced one airline—Air Vietnam—to cancel today's flights into the capital's Pochentong Airport.

The U.S. command said two American servicemen were killed and 12 wounded in Indochina last week, the lowest casualty toll in any week since last November.

South Vietnamese military sources said 28 persons, including three children and six other civilians, died in a guerrilla attack on a district headquarters at Truc Giang village in the Mekong Delta 55 miles south of Saigon.

The sources said the guerrillas overran the outpost and burned most of the buildings including a police station and a dependent's housing complex.

The most damaging rocket and mortar attack was at the Tay Ninh West airbase 55 miles northwest of Saigon—the jumping off spot for South Vietnamese drives into Cambodia.

Enough JP4 fuel was believed destroyed to keep a 31-helicopter squadron flying for five months.

The heaviest attacks, however, were in the northern section of South Vietnam where government troops called in 14 U.S. warplanes to try to stop the Communist fire.

Four separate attacks sent 101 rounds crashing into South Vietnamese bases just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Sources said 160 rounds of mortar and recoilless rifle fire hit another government base 15 miles southwest of Hue. There were no reports of casualties.

In Cambodia, 75 miles south of Phnom Penh, Communist troops attacked a South Vietnamese cavalry regiment position, killing 13 troops and wounding 20 others. Communist losses were listed as eight dead.

The two highways—one north of Phnom Penh and the other the major road between the capital and Saigon—were declared unsafe for civilian traffic.

The Cambodian high command said Communists abducted 130 persons from a northern province but there were no details on the incident.

In the air way, American B52 bombers flew nine missions into South Vietnam concentrating on targets in the Central Highlands and suspected Communist positions closer to the DMZ.

The B52s also bombed Communist troops around the beseiged Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) base at Long Cheng, Cambodia.

Drug Panel Recommendation Draws Some Mixed Reaction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The recommendation by a national commission to abolish criminal penalties for private use of marijuana has drawn mixed reaction among both the nation's youth and law enforcement officials.

Some officials gave qualified support to the idea, but others branded recommendations by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse as impractical and even dangerous.

Harry J. Anslinger, U.S. commissioner of Narcotics from 1930 to 1962, said the commission's recommendations could have "very serious national repercussions" and he called the findings "terrifying."

But Walter Richter, director of the Texas Program on Drug Abuse, said the group's report was "a very sane and humane and reasonable approach" that would free law enforcers to deal with the problem of hard drugs.

"I would be the last one to recommend anyone get involved with pot, but I think this helps put it in perspective," he said.

The 13-member commission, at the end of a year's study, urged Wednesday that the government end prosecution of marijuana users but continue jail terms and fines for growing or selling pot.

President Nixon, who appointed nine members of the commission, received the report without comment.

San Francisco Undersheriff Reuben Greenberg said he "agrees completely" with that recommendation, "We think the use of marijuana should be restricted, but not made illegal, the same way alcohol is."

But the proposal not to prosecute marijuana users and not to legalize it either was, in the opinion of Alabama Public Safety Director W. L. Allen, like "trying to follow the line of being just a little pregnant." He said he opposed the report.

Anslinger, who spearheaded passage of the federal Marijuana Tax Act in 1937, said liberalization of the law would cause the number of heroin users in the country to "mushroom."

"If these recommendations go through, allowing smoking in secret without any penalty, then I think in a couple of years we'll have about a million lunatics filling up the mental hospitals and a couple of hundred thousand more deaths on the highways—just plain slaughter on the highways," he said.

Opinions also were divided on college campuses and among others of the nation's youth.

Robin Arron, 18, of Sulfur, Okla., said she was opposed to all drugs and said of the report, "I think it's terrible ... To put it bluntly, we're going to have a lot of freak kids running around if they do this."

But Mike Taylor, managing editor of the student newspaper at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, disagreed.

"I definitely think they're on the right track. I don't think they're going to have any progress on drug abuse laws until marijuana is at least legalized," he said. "From what I've read and seen, the only thing wrong with it (marijuana) is that it's illegal."

Jeremy Bluhm, on the editorial staff of the Harvard Crimson, the student newspaper, said it was his personal view that "it is absolutely necessary to remove criminal penalties for private use" of marijuana.

While not completely endorsing the commission's report, many officials acknowledged the need for change in existing marijuana laws.

"Most of our laws about alcohol are too weak. Most of our laws about marijuana are too strong," said Dr. Walter Otto, assistant health officer in Chatham County (Savannah), Ga. "This committee has taken a step in the direction of relaxing the extreme fear people have about marijuana."

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch Jr. said he opposed complete elimination of criminal penalties for marijuana use but would like to see revision of current laws.

"I favor minimal misdemeanor penalties on the possession of small amounts of marijuana and minimal enforcement attention to such possession," he said.

Police Chief Derold Husby of Lansing, Mich., said enforcement of existing marijuana laws was hampered by lack of prosecution and "ridiculous sentences," but "I can't condone any report saying it (marijuana) should be used, and society should accept it."

Michigan State Police Director Col. John R. Plants called the recommendations "incongruous," saying of marijuana: "If it's bad to sell, it's bad to use."

North Ireland Cabinet Gets British Peace Proposal

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A British government plan for restoring peace to Northern Ireland went before the Northern Ireland cabinet today.

In continuing violence, a powerful bomb explosion ripped through Belfast's main railway station Wednesday, injuring 70 persons, wrecking two trains and damaging the city's largest hotel, the Europa. Police said it was another deliberate attempt to lure civilians to their death.

Premier Brian Faulkner summoned his cabinet to discuss the plan after engaging in nine hours of strenuous negotiations over it Wednesday with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in London.

Political sources in London said that unless Faulkner's cabinet accepts the plan, Northern Ireland might be faced with a grave new political crisis, leading perhaps to his resignation and a possible takeover of control by the British government. This would end the territory's status as a self-governing province.

In London, government sources said that the plan provides for the transfer of control of security in the province from the Northern Ireland government to a British resident minister in Belfast. Other key points include a gradual end to internment of suspected members of the Irish Republican army (IRA) and the inclusion of Roman Catholics in the government of the predominantly Protestant province.

In the railway station blast, a delivery truck parked next to one of the main passenger platforms exploded at 2:45 p.m., within minutes of six simultaneous telephone calls to police warning of bombs in six different places in the vicinity.

Police said they were unable to evacuate many people from the station and the nearby 12 story, 210-room Europa Hotel before the blast ripped the roof off the station wrecked two trains, dozens of cars and blew out every window in the rear of the hotel.
